The Pulitzer
Prize Awards

Harry Ashmore, editor of the more-than-a-century-old newspaper, the Arkansas Gazette, and the Gazette itself, are each winners of annual Pulitzer prizes in journalism. These will be perhaps the most generally approved and applauded Pulitzer verdicts in our time. Everywhere it was recognized that during the grave days of crisis in Little Rock, he and the Gazette scrupulously observed, and emphasized, the best principles of their profession.

Next to the Russian sputniks, Little Rock was the most important news story of the year. No where were distortions and prejudices so well avoided as in that city. For weeks Ashmore worked almost literally around the clock, as did his publishers and staff. He and the Gazette were the clearing house for news, for the disposition of hysterical reports which multiplied with the minutes.

Ashmore has known two professions—soldiering and newspapering. He was a great combat soldier. Promotions came to him because of his courage and leadership on the field. In newspaper work he has been, and is, simply a man with principles. He is not a liberal, as that word has come to be employed. He was never a segregationist or an anti-segregationist, but merely one who put his country first and who sought, without any advertisement of the fact, to live up to, not merely certain principles, but a certain gleam of inner truth which some men and women possess.

Simple Story

The story was simple. The school board of the City of Little Rock, under suit, produced a plan for a slow, 10-year program of desegregating its schools. The NAACP had opposed the plan. The district court had ruled that 10 years came within the Supreme Court's meaning of "deliberate speed." After a year of planning and fully informing the public, including the governor, the governor suddenly used state troops to prevent the board's action. None of this was the Gazette's doing, nor Ashmore's. But it was the Gazette's duty to stand for law and for orderly process, rather than anarchy. This both did, without equivocation.

Newspapermen who have pride in and affection for their craft were thrilled by the clean, decent, honest newspaper job done there, even though some strongly may dissent from the court's decision. To be sure, there will be a few who will sneer at the Pulitzer awards and at Ashmore as a choice. But these are they who for a long time now, insofar as an observer may determine, have been stewing unhappily in their own juices.

By virtue of their continued complaints, it is obvious some, at least, are having difficulty in living with their own consciences. They are the school, for example, which stridently protests their point of view is suppressed. Their extremist position, they insist, is "not understood." The fact is, the nation is surfeited with their point of view and their position is, for their peace of mind at least, all too well understood.

Combat Soldier

Ashmore was a great combat soldier. He is a good combat newspaperman. There is no sham in him. Nor is there pretending. He is a true conservative in the great tradition of that word, who puts his country and his own integrity first.

These are but some of the reasons why, all over the nation, newspapermen and women are made happy by the recognition of him and the Gazette for their public service achievements. One of our great failures in these days of crowded cities and increasing populations is an inadequacy of communication. There are more words than ever before. Sometimes it almost seems we drown in a sea of them. Yet, one may question if we are as well and truly informed as we need to be.

If this be true, as it seems to be, one reason is a lack of forthright, articulate writers and commentators. In honoring Ashmore and the Gazette the Pulitzer committee has honored every newspaperman and woman and every commentator who, to the best of his or her ability, has sought to do an honest job and tell an honest story.

Russia Confirms Separate Talks As Summit Step

By MAX FRANKEL
(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)
MOSCOW—The Soviet Union handed the Western powers still another note Monday about the preparation of a summit conference. Its primary purpose seemed to be to get on the record Moscow's understanding of the ground rules for the next round in the protracted negotiations.

At the same time the government denied that it had been guilty of delays during the five months of exchanges about a summit meeting. The note, mildly worded throughout, said Moscow's view on who was to blame—namely the West—was already known.

UP TO RUSSIA

Actually the message, handed to the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France by Foreign Minister Gromyko, did not materially advance the summit negotiations. The initiative remains with the Soviet government, which in the near future should call in the ambassadors for separate talks to prepare a meeting of foreign ministers which in turn will prepare for the meeting of the heads of government.

In recent weeks Gromyko had offered to deal separately with each of the ambassadors of the three Western nations. The West objected that this would be clumsy and asked for joint sessions. But when Moscow offered joint sessions with Poland and Czechoslovakia also in attendance, the West regrettably consented to the separate talks.

When the substantive talks will begin and how they are to be conducted remained in doubt Tuesday morning. U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Jr. will leave Moscow Tuesday for a round of consultations in Paris. He will also stop in Copenhagen and London before returning in two weeks.

NO DEVELOPMENT

This seemed to indicate that the United States expects no major development in the negotiations in the next fortnight.

As to the nature of the ambassadorial talks, Moscow's note, also

Ike Planning Resignation, Butler Feels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, predicted Monday that President Eisenhower may resign before the end of his second term. "Undiluted nonsense," said Meade Alcorn, Republican national chairman.

Butler said there are indications Eisenhower now feels the burdens of office are too great for him and he may leave the White House in advance of the GOP presidential nominating convention in 1960.

The Democratic leader expressed his views in a radio interview. Alcorn replied in a statement issued by his headquarters. "Only the other day President Eisenhower was asked in his press conference if he intended to resign, and he answered in a characteristically forthright and unqualified manner," Alcorn said.

"The nation, therefore, is confronted with the necessity of choosing between the President's unqualified denial and Mr. Butler's ridiculous speculation."

"Of course Mr. Butler has had considerable experience of hunting ghosts under the bed. As a prophet he has been a notable

3 Pulitzer Prizes Are Awarded For Little Rock Crisis Coverage

NEW YORK (AP)—Coverage of the explosive integration crisis at Little Rock's Central High School won three separate 1958 Pulitzer Prizes in journalism Monday.

They went to the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette for meritorious public service; the newspaper's executive editor, Harry S. Ashmore, for editorial writing; and Associated Press correspondent Relman (Pat) Morin for his eyewitness account of violence outside the school Sept. 23.

Morin, a Pulitzer Prize winner in 1951, was one of two winners this year for national reporting. The other was Clark Mollenhoff of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, who was cited for his investigation of labor racketeering.

Mollenhoff also is Washington correspondent of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Sen. Morse Here, Rips Ike's Plan

By MARION GAINES

The Pentagon reorganization plan drafted by the Eisenhower administration "seeks to encroach on congressional control of the military purse strings," Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) declared here Monday night.

"You'd have to say, I'm in the middle on this reorganization deal," Morse said during a stop-over at Atlanta Airport. "I would support this plan if safeguards are written into it guaranteeing Congress will retain control of military spending."

The bushy-browed Morse, long a hardhitting critic of most Eisenhower administration proposals, said he is opposed to the version of military reorganization outlined last week by Defense Secretary McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee.

"Congress has got to hold onto the purse strings," he asserted. "It would be extremely dangerous in this country to relinquish such power to the executive branch."

"It's just a 20-minute walk from the White House up to the Hill," Morse exclaimed. "If they want to do any shifting of military funds, they can walk up there and ask for the proper appropriations."

Morse arrived in Atlanta aboard a Delta airliner bound from Washington to New Orleans. He will deliver the keynote address Tuesday at the National Conference of Public Power Associations in New Orleans.

Asked what his topic would be, the longtime champion of public power said, "I'm going to talk about the sorry record of the Eisenhower administration in this field."

"The perspective of history will reveal clearly the black spots smeared on public power develop-

2 Cloudy Days In Mild 70s Forecast Here

Cooler weather is forecast for Atlanta and north Georgia for the next two days.

Tuesday is expected to be partly cloudy with temperature extremes of 60 and 75. Wednesday's forecast calls for fair skies and mild temperature extremes of 54 and 75.

Monday's extremes in Atlanta were 64 and 79. Heavy winds, with gusts up to 60-miles-an-hour hit Atlanta and sections of North Georgia Monday night, knocking down trees and disrupting power lines in some areas.

West Allies Prod Soviet On Summit

Ready for Talks
If Price Is Right

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)
COPENHAGEN, Denmark—The leaders of the Atlantic alliance reaffirmed Monday their willingness to meet the Soviet Union at the summit if the price is right without letting procedural difficulties bar the way.

The foreign ministers of the 15-member states opened on this note the three-day annual spring review of the status of the alliance. The emphasis this year was on issues raised by four months of bargaining with the Kremlin over proposals for a top-level meeting to seek a settlement of East-West differences.

REVIEW OF POSITIONS

This involved a review of the Western positions on disarmament, disengagement, suspension of nuclear tests and the Soviet demand for East-West "parity" in the summit talks that produced no surprises.

Noteworthy, however, in the reports from the first private sessions was the emphasis placed by Britain, Denmark, Turkey and other European delegations on the need to speed realization of current European economic co-operation efforts, such as the British-sponsored free trade area and cooperative arms production plans to make achievement on military goals easier.

Secretary of State Dulles, reporting on the status of these negotiations, said the Big Three were convinced it would be unwise to permit preparatory work for a summit conference to break down on points of procedure.

WILL NOT STAMPEDE

But he insisted again, as did British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and others, that the West would not be stampeded into an ill-prepared encounter or sacrifice political or military advantages to the Kremlin without solid compensation in terms of satisfactory settlement of some of the great problems confronting the world.

A question as to whether the Soviet Union wanted summit talks on this basis or at all with the same appearance of urgency noted earlier this year was voiced by Dulles, Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Henrich von Brentano.

Medic Sees Dying Man: His Father

A Grady Hospital ambulance attendant Monday answered a call to a downtown hotel and found his father fatally wounded from a shotgun blast in the chest, police said.

Carl Wellington Banks Sr., 46, manager of a Peachtree street clothing store, died soon after being admitted to Grady, Sgt. J. E. Helms said.

The son, Carl W. Banks Jr., 18, was under sedatives at the hospital.

Young Banks and ambulance driver F. O. Bishop answered a call to the Kimball House to pick up an injured person, Helms related. He said Banks entered first, rushed back out and gasped:

"That's my father!" Bishop completed the rush call. Helms said the elder Banks evidently purchased the 410-gauge shotgun earlier in the day. It was found beside the body.

Commuters Stone Station, Killing Boy

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A 15-year-old boy was killed by a stone when angry commuters badly damaged two railroad stations on the outskirts of Sao Paulo, railroad officials said Monday.

Because of a signal error, two trains almost collided between the Itaquera and Artur Alvim stations Sunday.

Passengers rushed to the two stations to take other trains, officials said, but they were told none was running. The crowd virtually destroyed one station.

Webb Vows He'll Quiz All Dealers

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Fulton Sol. Gen. Paul Webb announced Monday he will question all of the 1,100 retail liquor dealers in the state who have not yet been questioned in the current probe of the State Revenue Department.

The solicitor said that during the probe begun by the March-April term Fulton Grand Jury, "all of the wholesalers but two" and about 100 retailers were questioned.

Asked if he were going to question more liquor dealers, Webb answered, "Yes, I am going to talk to all of them in the state I haven't talked to yet."

SOME SUBPOENAS

This means that about 1,000 dealers from all over the state will either have to be subpoenaed before the grand jury in Atlanta or interviewed by members of Webb's staff.

Although he would not say so for quotation, Webb indicated all the dealers would not be subpoenaed because the cost would be prohibitive. Those summoned before sessions of the grand jury in Atlanta would have to be paid a per diem and mileage allowance.

Instead, the solicitor said he has assigned Asst. Sol. Gen. Charles A. Williams and investigator Lewis Clyburn to visit and interview the dealers. These men will have authority to ask that dealers be called before the grand jury.

JURY CRITICISMS

The March-April term grand jury, which was discharged Friday, probed extensively into liquor operations in the state. It criticized State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams' illegal liquor campaign fund and rapped him for withholding issuance of annual liquor licenses until late in the year.

Webb said Friday that he planned to pursue the investigation "with unabated zeal" and disclosed he planned to broaden the investigation by asking for more personnel from the county commissioners.

Monday, Webb said he was "not interested in money but men." He said he is seeking an attorney to fill a position before he asks for additional personnel from the commissioners. He also disclosed he still has some money left from a $5,000 special appropriation he got from the county in 1956 for investigative purposes.

Panel Approves Rights Director

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Gordon M. Tiffany for the key job of staff director of the new Civil Rights Commission.

The committee acted Monday after thinking it over for two months and two weeks.

This removed the last big barrier to full operation of the commission.

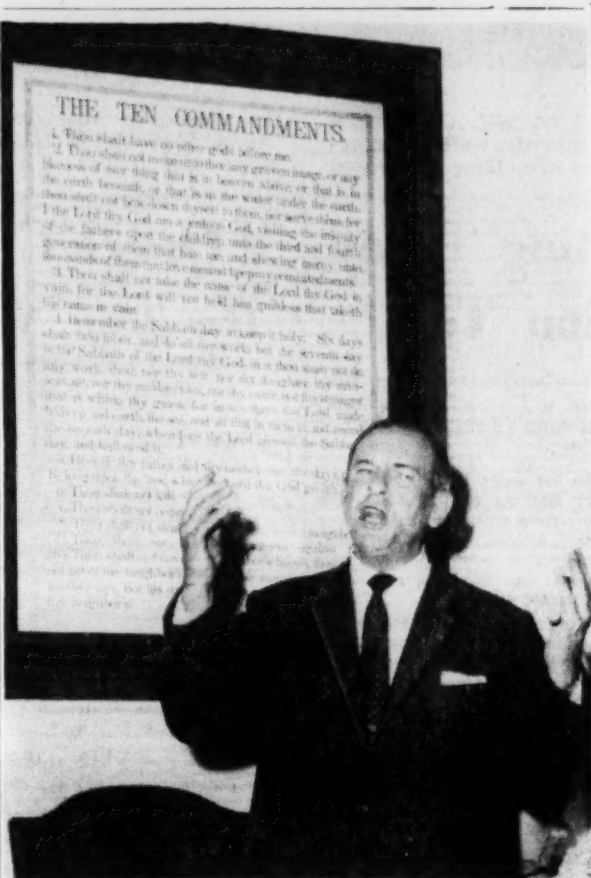

The commission was created last summer by the first civil rights law since Reconstruction Days, mainly to investigate complaints that Southern Negroes were being deprived of voting rights.

President Hails Junior Leagues

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Inc., that its interest in good government represents "a magnificent service to yourselves, your nation and humanity."

Eisenhower Monday greeted 450 delegates to the association's 36th annual meeting. He remarked, as he posed in high good humor with a group, "I don't get a chance like this very often."

Union Seans Lockheed's New Offer

A "hopeful" note was injected Monday into contract negotiations between the Georgia Division of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the International Association of Machinists.

In Atlanta, E. A. Demcheck, president of IAM's District 33 representing more than 8,000 Lockheed workers, said, "We are doing everything possible to work out an agreement satisfactory to both parties."

"The company has submitted a contract language proposal which the union committee is considering," said Demcheck.

At the same time, a statement from Lockheed said, "We will continue to meet with the union representatives, hopeful of reaching an early agreement which can

Will Indian Records Tell Oglethorpe Story?

How Gen. Oglethorpe looked to Georgia Indians as he landed from his ship in the Savannah River may become known from Indian records which have come to light, the Georgia Historical Commission reported Monday.

A diary now in the hands of Dorothea Brown, daughter of a principal chief of the Yuchi Indian tribe, is supposed to describe the initial landing of the state's founder, C. E. Gregory, executive director of the Historical commission, said.

The diary is part of a great many manuscripts now in the Indian woman's hands. Their discovery came about like this:

Yuchi Chief Brown came to Columbus from Oklahoma last year to see about buying land there that was once owned by Indians. He was 93 at the time. He agreed to settle there and bring the tribe's records with him.

Gov. Griffin hinted broadly at the return before a public meeting which jammed the county courthouse to capacity and spilled into the street.

"The law must be upheld, but we don't want to punish the people," Griffin declared.

MONDAY MEETING

The Board of Corrections will meet next Monday to consider the question.

Convicts were ordered removed from the Gilmer County work camp by Prisons Director Jack M. Forrester 10 days ago after reports convict labor was used to perform private construction work for County Commissioner A. C. Logan Sr., members of his family, private corporations and other individuals.

Logan admitted at that time that such work was done but said the county had been repaid for the work.

All C. O. Nixon, chairman of the Board of Corrections, would say concerning Logan was that he would be invited to attend the board's meeting next week.

Checks Cover 'Padding' in 7 Contracts

By JACK NELSON

White County has reimbursed the State Highway Department $4,607.82 for illegal county contract payments reported last month by The Atlanta Constitution.

The department Monday reported receipt of seven White County checks covering overpayments on as many contracts.

The Constitution reported a month ago that final monthly statements on the seven contracts contained "padded" figures to provide for pit royalty payments. These payments are made to landowners for material taken for base or subgrade treatment on roads.

NO COST

State highway contracts with counties specify that "subgrade treatment material pits are to be furnished by the county at no cost to the State Highway Department."

W. C. Smith Jr., division engineer at Gainesville, sent the highway office here a letter explaining:

"Overpayments on these projects were due to our having erroneously paid the pit royalties whereas this expense should have been borne by the county."

The seven contracts involved totaled approximately $195,000 for grading and widening an eight-mile road.

SUBLET CONTRACTS

White County sublet the contracts to Lothridge Bros. of Gainesville.

Under the White County-Lothridge agreement, the county paid Lothridge the full amount the county received under the contracts from the state.

Aldermen Laud Atlanta Papers For Exposures

The Atlanta Board of Aldermen Monday adopted a resolution praising The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal for their "many astounding exposures of irregularities" in governmental activities and urged that they be continued.

The resolution, authored by Ald. John A. White, said the Atlanta papers have for "many months waged a campaign . . . to expose any irregularities and wrong doings in all governments."

"Whereas all public officials and citizens alike should welcome and approve of same, so the people may have full confidence in their officials and employees," the resolution continued.

The aldermen urged that the exposures continue until "only persons of integrity shall be found in positions of public trust."

Alabama Voting Today In Segregation Test

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Candidates made final appeals Monday on the eve of a Democratic primary election which may affect Alabama's future conduct in the fight to preserve segregation.

An expected record number of voters Tuesday will pick the Democratic nominees for governor, lieutenant governor, a new legislature and scores of lesser state and district offices.

Besides the 14 candidates for governor and five for lieutenant governor, the voters will choose from a long list of contenders for the 141 seats in the legislature, for attorney general, state auditor, state treasurer, secretary of state, superintendent of education, agriculture commissioner, circuit judges and solicitors, and scores of county offices.

Racial segregation has been uppermost among the campaign issues in the race for governor. One by one, the candidates have all promised to prevent integration, but each has offered his own formula.

The Negro vote could be a factor, especially in a close race. The Montgomery Improvement Assn., a Negro organization, estimated 53,000 Negroes were registered to vote a year ago. An undetermined number has been added since then.

Seeking the gubernatorial nomination are:
Former Congressman Laurie Battle of Birmingham, retired Adm. John Crommelin of Wetumpka, W. E. Dodd of Bessemer, Shearen Elebash of Montgomery, former state Sen. Jimmy Faulkner of Bay Minette, Winston Gullatte of Selma, state Rep. Karl Harrison of Columbiana, state Rep. George Hawkins of Gadsden, President Jack Owen of the Public Service Commission, Montgomery; Atty. Gen. John Patterson of Phenix City, Ralph (Shorty) Price of Louisville, Agriculture Commissioner A. W. Todd of Russellville, the Rev. Billy Walker of Pell City, and Circuit Judge George Wallace of Clayton.

Two Citizens Council leaders, state Sen. Sam Engelhardt of Macon County and Asa Carter of Birmingham, are among the candidates for lieutenant governor.

Others seeking the nomination for the state's second highest elective office are state Sen. Albert Boutwell of Birmingham, Robert T. Butler of Montgomery and State Sen. E. W. Skidmore of Tuscaloosa.

Boston Bans Rock 'n' Roll After Mele

BOSTON (AP)—Rock 'n' roll musical shows in public auditoriums were banned in Boston and New Haven, Conn., Monday.

Fifteen persons, including four women and two young girls, were stabbed, slugged, beaten or robbed in Boston Saturday night by gangs of roving teen-agers and adults after a rock 'n' roll show ended and 6,000 persons poured out into South End streets.

Police Lt. Arthur Quinn said at least six of the victims reported they were attacked by Negro men and women.

Lt. Quinn said first reports indicated that racial violence was not involved in the riot, but a fuller probe by the police department revealed that Negroes attacked whites and fled before they could be seized by police.

NLRB Rules Racial Letter Didn't Void Union Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ruled Monday that mention of a racial issue in an NLRB election among employees of a plant is not sufficient grounds for voiding the results of the election.

The board refused to set aside the 40-4 vote by which workers at the Sharnay Hosiery Mills, Inc., at Madison, N.C., last Nov. 8 rejected the Textile Workers Union of America as their bargaining agent.

Two of the five members of the board, Chairman Boyd Leedom and Stephen S. Bean, agreed that the results of the election should be upheld but at the same time expressed "our concern over the injection of the racial issue in any election."

The textile workers union had asked that the election be voided because two weeks before the election the employer mailed to the mills' workers an eight-page letter which included the union's position on issues of racial integration.

The letter said the union is strongly pro-integration, had submitted a pro-integration brief to the Supreme Court, is striving to eliminate segregation from every phase of American life and he is a member of the AFL-CIO which at its last convention contributed $75,000 to the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The union, in asking for voiding of the election, said injection of the racial issue created an atmosphere of hate and bias against it.

The board, ruling against the union, said "the issue is a narrow one." It said the union concedes that there were no threats or promises made by the employer and there was no misrepresentation of the union's position.

"We are asked," the board said, "rather, to hold that the mere mention of the racial issue, in an election campaign, is per se improper grounds for setting aside any and all elections where such might occur."

U.S. Savings Reach Record $16 Billion

Rise $3 Billion in Year
As Individual Debts Decline

By EDWIN L. DALE JR.

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Individuals saved more last year than in any year since World War II, the Securities and Exchange Commission reported Monday.

What the commission calls "net financial savings" totaled $16,300,000,000, up from $13,300,000,000 in 1956 and far above the $7,500,000,000 in 1955. Some of the difference is accounted for by the fact that individuals incurred less debt last year, which counts as an offset to savings.

The report showed that at the end of the year individuals had "financial assets" ranging from cash to equity in the government's Social Security fund, totaling a record $483,900,000,000, and debts also at a record $141,800,000,000. The resulting "net equity" of individuals was $342,100,000,000, up from $330,300,000,000 at the end of 1956.

Individuals last year continued to save large and roughly unchanged amounts in the form of life insurance, savings and loan shares and pension funds. The big changes from 1956 were:

1. Substantial increases in time and savings deposits in commercial banks, purchases of corporate bonds and purchases of various types of government bonds (other than savings bonds).

2. Substantial decreases in individuals' equity in government Social Security and unemployment insurance funds, U.S. government savings bonds, mortgage indebtedness and installment indebtedness.

Starkweather Pleads Insane as Trial Opens

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Gunman Charles R. Starkweather, dapper in a tan suit, white shirt and brown figured tie, came to trial in Lancaster District Court here Monday for first-degree murder.

The charge stems from one of 11 slayings in which he has admitted involvement.

The court was concerned Monday with the tedious task of selecting 12 jurors who will measure the 19-year-old redhead's guilt, and prescribe a penalty if convicted as charged. Death in the electric chair or life imprisonment are the alternatives on conviction.

INSANITY PLEA

First normal step of Starkweather's court-appointed lawyers was to change his plea from innocent to innocent by reason of insanity.

The attorneys had hinted strongly this would be the defense.

Highlight of the initial court day however, was the out-of-court disclosure by defense attorneys of a note Starkweather scrawled on a jail cell wall three months ago, just after his capture.

In the note, the bandy legged five-foot-five Starkweather took the blame for nine killings but attributed two others to his 14-year-old girl friend and traveling companion on the late-January killing spree, Carl Ann Fugate.

Carl also has been charged with murder, but prosecution has been stalled by a legal battle over whether she should be tried in District Court, which can assess the death penalty, or in Juvenile Court, which can only detain to the age of 21.

Defense lawyers said Starkweather's note was written on the wall of a cell in the Scotts Bluff County Jail in Gering, Neb., where he had been held overnight while being returned to Lincoln following capture near Douglas, Wyo.

The note read: "Caril is the one who said to go to Washington state. By the time anybody will read this I will be dead for all the killings, then they cannot give Caril the chair to (sic)."

"From Lincoln, Neb., they got us Jan. 29, 1958.

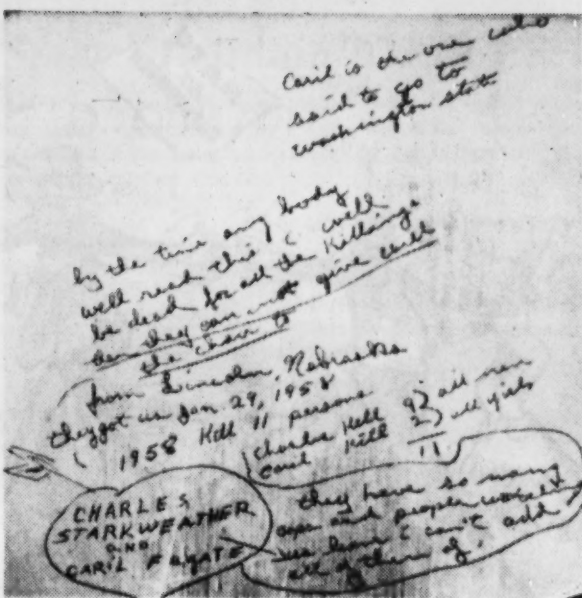

"1958, killed 11 persons.

"Charles kill 9, all men. Caril kill 2, all girls.

"They have so many cops and people watching us leave I can't add all of them up."

The tally of victims apparently was faulty. Of 11 victims in whose slayings Starkweather has admitted involvement, six were male and five were female.

Both Caril and Starkweather are charged specifically in the death of Robert Jensen, 17, of Bennet, Neb., whose body was found in an unused storm cellar near Bennet Jan. 28.

Youths Plead And Stab Boy

NEW YORK (UP)—Williams

Bonds, 19, and Remio Moore, 18, who had belonged to a recently disbanded street gang, appeared on a television program last Friday to discuss juvenile delinquency.

Bonds and Moore, both Negro, urged their audience to take a more tolerant view of the juvenile problem. They insisted that they were misunderstood by the public.

Monday, Moore and Bonds were arrested and charged with felonious assault. Police said they stabbed Gene Williams, 17, Negro, three times after an argument over a girl in a dance hall. Williams was in fair condition in Bellevue Hospital.

Though Abby modestly insists she is not King Solomon, Portia, Cassandra, the U. S. Supreme Court or the Delphic Oracle even, she hands down pronouncements as profoundly as if she were the whole shebang. Come wander through a rich, rare (sometimes racy) wonderland of perplexity with "Dear Abby," 201 light-hearted pages of all-too-human nature, just 2.95 in Davison's Book Shop, Mezzanine.

Strike up the headache band

Back in the jazzy twenties they were called Headache Bands and worn smack across the forehead, Pocahontas style, by such femmes celebres as Irene Castle, It-Girl Clara Bow, tennis star Helen Wills Moody and a million-jillion other flappers. Now in the fascinating fifties, this delightful fashion with the horrid name stages a comeback and makes smashing headline news with the chemise, trapeze and balloon silhouettes. Choose your headache band in a mad medley of styles—flower print butterfly bows on clips; velvet or ribbon bands. Yep! even leather and straw belts cut down to head size (if you wondered where the belts went when chemises roared in, that's where)! How do you wear 'em? Any old way that beautifies you—top of the forehead, pushed back to halo a tossed salad and/or soufflé hair-do; circling your head as demurely as an Alice in Wonderland bandeau. Where do you wear 'em? Anywhere, cherie, with the possible exception of dreamland. They can go anywhere a hat can go and lots of places (like a tennis court or dance floor) a hat wouldn't dare. For a faster pick-up than you'd get from a double dose of Bayer's, hop on the headache band wagon... everybody's doing it! Just $1.00 and $2.00 per band in Davison's Neckwear, Street Floor.

Women, say the statistics, hold the purse strings of the nation. Women are the Plutocrats of Purchasing Power. But alas! Occasionally the poor dears can't even dig up carfare from the flotsam and jetsam of bobby pins, loose stamps, raffie stubs, et cetera, that hog down their wallets. Now Davison's comes up with the dandiest, handiest device for stashing cash since the money belt. It's a decorative, gilded metal coin-pak with a $ sign on the lid. Inside are cosy compartments for folding money, half-dollars, quarters, nickels, dimes and pennies. Why not give one to Mama on Her Day next Sunday? It's the prettiest way we know to help her hang onto her dough. Just one $ in Davison's Beauty Spot, Street Floor.

Ward 5 Aldermen Clash Over Peachtree Zoning

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The aldermanic board session Monday was enlivened by a short but bitter exchange between Fifth Ward Aldermen John A. White and Hamilton Douglas Jr. The clash came over the projected zoning of a stretch of Peachtree street for commercial use.

Under the plan the zoning would extend in depth some 420 feet from Peachtree road and would zone portions of 25th and 26th streets. A petition, protesting the change, which White said was signed by all residents of 26th street, including former Mayor Roy LeCraw, was submitted. White insisted on a public hearing.

The controversy broke suddenly when White succeeded in sending the proposal to the aldermanic board's zoning committee for a public hearing. Douglas is a member of the committee.

Courthouse To Close on Saturdays

All administrative offices at the Fulton County courthouse and annex will begin closing on Saturday for a trial period beginning May 17, County Manager A. E. Fuller has advised department heads.

In a letter to department heads, Fuller explained that a 1958 Legislature act provides that any legal duty, which falls on Saturday or Sunday can be performed the following Monday.

"During the last year, both buildings have experienced very little demand for service on Saturdays, thereby requiring employees to report for duty when not actually needed and then allowing equal compensatory time off during weekdays when they are vitally needed to insure adequate public service," the manager's letter explained.

County officials whose offices have been staying open on Saturdays with "skeleton" forces decided on the closing in a recent conference.

Fuller also warned department heads to "take stock" of their work schedules to insure that employees "are fully conforming with the work week normally applicable" and to see that "citizens are receiving the high quality of public service to which they are entitled."

Bradley, Radford Back Ike on Reorganization

Suggest Plan May Be Only a First Step
In Streamlining Pentagon for Space Age

By RUSSELL BAKER
(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Gen. Omar Bradley and Adm. Arthur V. Radford, former chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, strongly endorsed Monday President Eisenhower's Pentagon reorganization proposals.

Adm. Radford, who retired from the chairmanship last summer after four years' service, suggested that the plan now before Congress might even prove inadequate to meet the long-range needs of national defense.

It might prove to be only a "first step" toward further reorganization that may be needed to accommodate the nation's military structure to the "enormous changes" in the art of war expected in the next decade, he said.

He and Gen. Bradley testified before the House Armed Services Committee as it entered its third week of close study of the President's draft bill.

At the same time, senior members of the committee indicated that the bill they report to the full house will be considerably less expansive in its language than the draft the administration put before them.

The redrafting process is now under way, Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.) said. The President's bill looked like an attempt to "slip through" legislation that would empower the executive branch to abolish separate services.

But the administration's witnesses, he noted, had declined to discuss the measure in these terms and had painted it, instead, as a relatively minor change in statutes that now becloud executive authority.

To convert it to this state of relative innocence, he said, would be "a very simple matter of drafting." If the committee were freed of obstructions outside distraction, it "could draft his bill in two or three hours" and remove all the features the committee considers objectionable, Kilday said.

"Almost write it on the back of an envelope," put in Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), and committee chairman.

CONSULTED BY PENTAGON
Gen. Bradley, the day's first witness, was chairman of the Joint Chiefs from August, 1949, to August, 1953. Both he and Adm. Radford were consulted by the Pentagon on what the bill should contain.

Like earlier Administration witnesses, Gen. Bradley endorsed proposals to repeal two highly controversial clauses in present law. One proposal would remove the stipulation that the individual services be "separately administered."

The other would do away with restrictions on the power of the secretary of defense to transfer, consolidate or abolish the individual services' combat roles and missions.

NO UPHEAVALS SEEN
He did not fear the bill could lead to sweeping upheavals of traditional military functions.

While Gen. Bradley did not categorically endorse the bill's controversial language, Adm. Radford supported much of it. There were three essentials that the bill would satisfy, he said. It would convert the present peacetime organization into one capable of dealing with a war situation produced on a few minutes' notice.

It would increase co-ordination in research and development. And it would "remove areas of legal doubt" about the secretary's power to resolve disputes.

Dennis Crosby Weds Showgirl, 26, Once Dated by His Crooner Dad

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Crooner Bing Crosby's son Dennis is honeymooning with a striking showgirl divorcee whom Bing once dated himself.

Dennis, 23, and Pat Sheehan, 26, mother of a 6-year-old son, were married Sunday in a Protestant ceremony. They have been dating several months.

The couple said last Feb. 3 they would be married in the same Las Vegas Catholic church where widowed Bing, 53, married actress Kathryn Grant, 23, last October.

But two days later the Rt. Rev. John J. Ryan, pastor of St. Anne's Church said: "I wish to make it clear that no such marriage can be approved by the Catholic church unless, after a thorough investigation it is found that the former marriage of Miss Sheehan was captured by highway patrolmen."

Msgr. Ryan would not comment today, referring all questions to the Crosby's home parish, the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills, Calif.

A spokesman there said no statement would be made until all the facts are known.

Bing, who was playing golf at Palm Springs, could not be reached for comment Monday.

Miss Sheehan, a non-Catholic, said she and George Douglas, then 30, a representative of the American Guild of Variety Artists, were married by a Nevada justice of the peace in 1950. They were divorced three years later.

Cadwell Mayor Acquitted In Chase Shooting Case

A Laurens County Superior Court jury in Dublin Monday found Mayor Alva E. Heath of Cadwell innocent of charges of unlawfully shooting at another.

The charges grew out of an incident March 16 involving three young men, Arthur Lee Thompson, Donald Coffield, and J. L. Lowery.

Coffield, 16, testified as a witness for the prosecution and said the mayor shot out a tire on a car he was in.

Heath said in an unsworn statement that he was simply trying to protect the interests of the people of Cadwell.

He told the jury he saw the boys jump into a pickup truck and speed away between 1 and 2 a.m. He said he ordered them to halt and fired a shot into the air when they kept going. Then he said he got in a car with another man and halted the truck by shooting out a tire.

Four days after the incident a mass meeting of some 50 persons was held. The mayor said he was very sorry for any offense and was warmly defended by two women and a minister.

Suez To Stay Open to All, Nasser Says

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)
CAIRO—Gamal Abdel Nasser was reported Monday to have told top Soviet officials he intended to keep the Suez Canal neutral and open to the shipping of all nations in the event of world conflict.

High-level sources in Cairo said the head of the United Arab Republic had emphasized this point during his conversations last week with Premier Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders. These sources added that the official report on the results of those talks indicated that Nasser's position regarding operation of the Suez Canal during peacetime and in the event of war were among the major topics discussed.

Also on the agenda, these sources said, were economic, military, political and cultural relations between the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic, an exchange of views on international affairs in general, including the question of disarmament and nuclear weapons, and an exchange of views on Middle Eastern and African affairs, including the Arab-Israeli issue, Britain's dispute with Yemen over her Aden protectorates and colony, the Algerian rebellion against France and the colonial issue in Africa.

"Nasser and Khrushchev found themselves in complete general agreement on each of these questions," the sources reported. Before Nasser flies back to Cairo a final meeting is expected to be held to approve the wording of the already drafted communique. He now is touring the Soviet Union.

Kidnaper's Wife Kills Self in Trap

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A woman helped her husband kidnap an Idaho Springs marshal Monday, then shot and killed herself as police closed in.

She was identified as Georgia Brian McKnight, 23, of Port Chester, N. Y., and her husband as David F. McKnight, 21, of Greenwich, Conn. McKnight was captured by highway patrolmen.

The two were sought in Amarillo, Tex., in the fatal beating of a pawnshop operator, Raymond B. Reed, 52. Officers said they also were wanted in connection with robberies at Kansas City, Mo., and Wichita, Kan., and for kidnapping in Los Angeles and Las Vegas, Nev.

MARSHAL UNHURT

The marshal, Charles Hull, 37, escaped unhurt.

An airman from Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., told officers the McKnights had held him prisoner since Saturday night.

Airman Oscar Barkhurst, 23, of Dillonville, Ohio, said the pair kidnaped him and took his car at Las Vegas. Earlier, Harry Zeidman, 37, of Los Angeles, told officers there the couple held him prisoner in a hotel room at Los Angeles for nine hours last Thursday and Friday.

CAME RAPIDLY

Developments came rapidly after the McKnights stopped at a service station here, 40 miles west of Denver, and tried to sell a .25-caliber automatic.

The station owner called Hull and advised him of the suspicious offer. The marshal intercepted the car and asked all three occupants to come to the officer's vehicle.

Mrs. McKnight David McKnight

As Barkhurst showed his identification for the car, Hull said, the woman pulled a .38 caliber pistol. She and her husband forced Hull to accompany them to Barkhurst's car. Barkhurst jumped into the marshal's car and fled.

DROVE OFF

An alarm was spread as the McKnights drove off with Hull. Three roadblocks were established west of Denver.

Hull said that as the car approached a roadblock, McKnight warned, "If they shoot at us, I'll kill you."

Hull said after the car tore through the roadblock, the woman pleaded with McKnight to stop. They pulled up at a service station east of here.

Gerald Burt, 24, operator of the station, and two friends were working in the shop when the woman walked into the office, a pistol in her left hand.

3 MEN FLED

"Hey, you guys, get in here," she commanded. The three men fled.

At this point the woman apparently saw State Patrolman Darrell Penner seize her husband. McKnight meekly surrendered.

As two other officers headed for the station, Mrs. McKnight shot herself in the head.

Husband, Wife and Brother All Die Within 10 Hours

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—Death called Monday for an elderly, childless couple and a bachelor stepbrother who had lived together for more than 26 years.

Police attributed the deaths to natural causes.

The bachelor, Michael King, 84, received the first visit Monday morning in the sparsely-furnished four-room apartment.

Mrs. Catherine Reilly, 78, heard him grope his way to the bathroom in the night. When she got up she found her step-brother sprawled on the living room floor. He was dead.

Without waking her husband, John, bedridden with a weak heart, she carefully dressed and, wearing her red spring coat, walked seven blocks to a funeral home.

As she talked with the office manager about her step-brother's funeral, she appeared calm. Suddenly she said she was faint. The manager went for a glass of water. Mrs. Reilly was unconscious when he returned and died a few minutes later.

Police went to the Reilly flat and found John, 78, in a coma.

He was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital, but time was running out for him, too. Death paid its third visit—to John—less than 10 hours after Michael King died.

ARE YOU LOSING YOUR HAIR?

FALLING HAIR itself doesn't cause baldness. It is natural for hair to reach mature length and then fall out. Baldness starts when some local scalp ill keeps a new hair from growing in place of each hair that falls out. Dandruff and scalp-itch are common danger signals indicating the presence of some local growth-choking condition of the hair and scalp. These local scalp troubles which cause so much baldness are not easily overcome. They need specialized treatment—a specific treatment for each particular condition. Combing, brushing, washing, tonics—not enough. You'll save time—money—and hair by consulting a Thomas specialist first. His "know-how" is based on The Thomas' 36 years of experience in giving more than seven-million treatments. See him today—just come in for a free scalp examination (no appointment is necessary.) White County Repays $4,607 to Road Board

State Gets Checks for Overpayments
On 7 Illegally Padded Road Contracts

Bros. to the White County Commissioners led to the discovery of the padded figures on the final monthly statements. The note, dated Oct. 7, 1957, said:
"On checking on the material we used on Rock Springs Road, I find Mr. Storey did not allow us anything extra to pay the royalty. You can check with him and maybe he will include it in one of your contracts."

Alton D. Storey, division engineer at Cleveland (White County seat), said at the time that the "royalty" mentioned in the note referred to "pit royalty."

Storey explained that he padded material figures on the final monthly statements on some projects to provide funds for paying royalties. He said this was a general practice with the department and he pointed out that he worked under orders from the Gainesville division office.

When asked to name a specific project which included these false figures, Storey named the Louisville Camp Grounds Road. That project was completed under the seven contracts for which the county is reimbursing the state for pit royalty payments.

EXPLAIN DIFFERENCE
When a project requires more material than originally estimated, the engineer on the project must make a written explanation of the difference. When Storey was asked how he explained the inflated material figures required for pit royalties, he replied:

"Various ways." He said he never admitted in the explanations that the added amount was not actually used on the road, but was merely included to pay for pit royalties.

Smith, the division engineer, said Monday that he was "lax and off-base" when he ordered Storey to "take care of the records on that project so we could pay the county for pit royalties."

"I didn't have the right to authorize payment of it," he said. He added that he considered his action "erroneous." He said this was the reason his letter to the Atlanta highway office stated that the payments were made "erroneously."

Smith said he thought he could have gotten approval from the Atlanta office to include the pit royalty payments in a "supplemental agreement" if he had "gone through proper channels."

He was asked how he thought this could be done in view of the contracts' provisions that counties must make the payments. He said he wasn't sure that it could be, but thought it could.

NO OTHER CASE
He disputed Storey's comment that padding the figures for the pit payments is a "general practice" with the highway department. He said he knew of no other case.

Smith suggested that Storey might have made this comment to a reporter because he (Storey) "was scared and knew what we had done was wrong."

Smith said he had instructed other resident engineers in the northern division to "check every project." He said if any more cases are found, "we will start immediately getting the money back."

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. has expressed an interest in reports of highway irregularities in North Georgia and reportedly had called on the highway department for more information on any padding of estimates.

Bruce M. Shanks of the Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News, in cartooning, for his Aug. 10 cartoon depicting the dilemma faced by members of some labor unions with "acketers among their leadership." It was entitled "The Thinker."

William C. Beall of the Washington (D.C.) Daily News, for photography. His picture of a policeman patiently reasoning with a small boy who was trying to get closer to a passing parade was captioned "Faith and Confidence." It appeared last Sept. 11.

LIPPMAN CITED

Walter Lippmann, columnist of the New York Herald Tribune, received a special citation for "wisdom, perception and high sense of responsibility with which he has commented for many years on national and international affairs."

In the field of art, the following awards were announced:

BIOGRAPHY AWARD

Biography—"George Washington," six volumes of which were written by Douglas Southall Freeman before his death in 1953, the remaining volume written afterwards by John Alexander Carroll and Mary Wells Ashworth. Freeman won a similar prize in 1933. His associates, Carroll and Mrs. Ashworth, were commissioned to complete the biography. However, the $500 prize will go to Freeman's estate.

Poetry—"Promises: Poems 1954-1956," by Robert Penn Warren, who won a Pulitzer Prize in fiction in 1947. His poetry has been described as "a kind of rough bal-ladry."

Music—Samuel Barber, for the score of his first opera, "Vanessa." Twice winner of a Pulitzer music scholarship, Barber became the first scholarship holder to win the music prize. He is 48.

Sen. Morse Here, Hits Ike's Reorganization

ment by Eisenhower and the Republicans," he said.

"One of the blackest spots in their failure to protect the natural resources that should be part of the heritage of every American boy and girl," he declared.

America's natural resources are being squandered by the Eisenhower administration's "catering to monopolistic interests," said the man who once held the Senate floor for 22 hours and 26 minutes while assailing the "tidelands oil giveaway."

Known in congressional circles as something of a "lone wolf," Morse smiled when questioned about Washington rumors that he is "feuding" with his Democratic colleague from Oregon, Sen. Richard Neuberger.

"It is true that Sen. Neuberger and I differ on some very fundamental issues," said Morse, who showed in 1952 his willingness to be labeled "different."

In that presidential election year, the then-Republican Morse quit the GOP ranks, supported Democratic Adlai Stevenson for the presidency and wound up calling himself a political "Independent."

Three years later he crossed the senate aisle to become a full-fledged Democrat, an act that prompted some Republicans to brand him "Maverick Morse."

He crossed political swords with Neuberger, Morse said, when Senator Neuberger voted with Republicans to bring out of committee a 5-cent postage stamp bill.

"That bill is drastically unfair to the farmers," Morse said, "because it would require just a 4-cent stamp for first-class mail sent within a city and a 5-cent stamp for out-of-city mail."

Morse said that when he supported an income tax cut as a means of combatting the recession, "Senator Neuberger said I was fiscally irresponsible."

"The quickest stimulus for easing the recession would be a broad-based tax cut," Morse said.

"We also ought to increase personal income tax exemptions from $600 to at least $800. That extra money would be poured into the cash registers of small businesses—and they surely do need help."

"Life's Lots More Interesting When You Hear Clearly Again!"

by Dan F. Regal
"Gosh, life certainly is more interesting now that I've discovered how to hear so clearly again!"
"I'll bet it is!" I replied to this happy grandfather. "Belton Hearing Glasses certainly turned the trick, didn't they?"
"Yep," he said. "They let me hear without all that apparatus I was afraid of, too, like the button in ear, cord down the neck, and big ugly instruments. Why, only a tiny, nearly invisible tube carries sound to my ear!"
It's true! Belton Hearing Glasses bring hard of hearing folks all those advantages, plus the ability to hear with BOTH ears, just as nature intended. Come in NOW, for your FREE demonstration!

though 'accommodating in tone, held fast to the Soviet contention that substantive issues were not to be the major business at the preliminary sessions.
The Western powers in their last two notes to Moscow said flatly that they expected the ambassadors and then the foreign ministers to deal first and primarily with the agenda of issues to be brought before the chiefs of government. This was necessary, they contended, to outline current positions and to determine on what issues there might be agreement at the summit.
Moscow on the other hand has been pressing for early agreement on the time, place and composition of the foreign ministers and summit meetings.

failure. I recall one of his latest ventures was when he predicted in 1956 that Adlai Stevenson would be elected president by a landslide."
Butler said he would venture to guess Eisenhower will step out and turn over his duties to Vice President Nixon because of an eventual conclusion "that he feels physically unable to continue to discharge the responsibilities and duties" of the presidency.
The chairman of the Democratic National Committee expressed his views in a radio interview program.
Butler said he feels that Eisenhower for the most part is showing no particular zest for his job nowadays.
Butler was reminded by an interviewer that Eisenhower, at a news conference last week, said he has no responsibility to groom a successor. The President also suggested at that time he may not speak out in advance of the Republican nominating convention in behalf of any party aspirant for the office.
Asked whether he read any significance into those Eisenhower remarks, Butler replied:
"No, I don't read any particular significance into that statement one way or another. I don't have any interpretation that it either helps or harms Mr. Nixon."
"But I have a feeling myself that I have not publicly expressed before, that all of this talk and conversation and gossip here in Washington about some deal having been made by the President and the vice president with respect to a possible resignation by election indicates that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire, or at least the smoldering embers of some fire.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONOID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).
(1) COLONOID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONOID's unequalled rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONOID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.
COLONOID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy. And COLONOID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONOID, today!

Demcheck said discussions between the union and the company continued throughout Monday, the last session beginning at 7 p.m. and lasting two hours.

"Another session is scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday. We hope that some satisfactory agreement can be reached before the midnight Wednesday deadline."

Meanwhile, in Washington, Al J. Hayes, president of the IAM, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile & Aircraft Workers (UAW), conferred with Secretary of Defense McElroy at the Pentagon.

The Lockheed statement said further:
"We are desirous of reaching an equitable and early agreement with the union. No door will be closed which might lead to such a settlement."

"Through the past seven years in Georgia, our actions have demonstrated our willingness to meet reasonable requests of the Union. We have worked together as a team to provide for the defense needs of our nation and the economic development of our section of the state."

Secretary of Defense McElroy was told by the union leaders there may be a strike of 125,000 aircraft and missile workers unless their demands get greater consideration from four major plane builders—Lockheed, Douglas, Convair and North American Aviation Cos.

Girl's Heart Operation Reset Today

A 6-year-old Moultrie girl's twice postponed heart operation has been reset for Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's Infirmary here.

Mrs. J. H. Walker, mother of little Carline Walker, said that an attack of bronchitis, which caused the second postponement two weeks ago, is still persisting.

But Carline has shown some signs of improvement since she was placed under an oxygen tent and a tube inserted in her throat to facilitate breathing and drainage, Mrs. Walker said.

A doctor at St. Joseph's said Monday afternoon that he knew of no reason why Carline would not be able to undergo the operation Tuesday morning.

The operation will close a damaging opening in one of the chambers of the girl's heart, the doctor said.

Originally set for April 1, the operation was postponed then because of a skin rash. The Moultrie Elks Club is financing the operation.

Representative citizens from throughout the county gave testimony that prison labor was needed to keep the county roads in proper condition.

Everett Weeks, county school superintendent, said 1,600 Gilmer County school children were transported in 32 buses every day. "Eighty per cent of our roads are not paved," he said. To keep them in a passable condition, "we need more labor."

Recently discharged telephone workers paraded in front of two of Southern Bell Telephone Co. downtown buildings housing offices of Southern Bell Telephone Co. Monday carrying signs quoting the company's 1957 annual financial report and protesting their being laid off.

"It was not a Communication Workers of America picket line," a union spokesman said. "It was just some people who were laid off last week advertising conditions under which they had been laid off."

A telephone company spokesman said a total of between 150 and 175 of the company's some 10,000 employees will be laid off "during the next few weeks" because of a decline in business.

Car Tears Up 180-Ft. Fence in Freeway Chase

Patrolmen D. E. Keown and A. L. Cantrell said that during a downpour of rain on the south Expressway near the Atlanta city limits a speeding car whizzed north.

Keown, who was driving, set out after him. Keown said he hit 95. The driver was still pulling away. Keown said he reached 110.

The car ahead began to skid. Keown and Cantrell said it slammed into the center fence, ripping 180 feet of the fence down, then skidded over onto the south-bound traffic lane and the driver headed south.

Identified as Gordon M. Williams, 30, of 1254 Kerry Pl., NW, he was booked on charges of speeding 95 in a 50-mile zone and striking a fixed object, officers said.

Atlantans To Pray Today As Operation Alert Opens

Atlantans will offer prayers of thanksgiving Tuesday as the nationwide Civil Defense exercise, Operation Alert 1958, begins.

The Rev. Harrison McMains, chief of CD's chaplain service, will lead citizens in the Atlanta area in prayer simultaneously with the sounding of sirens, signifying an enemy attack.

Radio and TV stations and private music transmitters will broadcast a Prayer of Thanksgiving that the sirens are only part of the exercise and not a real emergency.

Tuesday's plans for the Prayer of Thanksgiving were endorsed Monday in a special resolution by Atlanta's Board of Aldermen.

Operation Alert 1958 is another National Civil Defense exercise to prepare local, state, regional and national CD workers for any emergency which might arise should America come under enemy attack.

In the scope of national defense Atlanta is designated as a critical target area.

As I See It

$9,000 for Lonesome George

By PAUL JONES

George Gobel is coming back to Atlanta in June and his salary is going to be more than 100 times what it was when he played here the last time.

"Ole Lonesome" is scheduled to entertain at a $50 a plate dinner and take part in a day-long program for a special group here June 20.

I am told he will be paid a cool $9,000 for his services during this one-day stand.

The last time George was in town he was earning something like $500 a week—not a day, mind you—at the Henry Grady Paradise Room.

George played there several times. The first time he appeared in this popular club he earned something less than $500 a week.

Working a six-day schedule, I figure Gobel's salary on his last visit was something like $84 a day. That is chicken feed compared with the stipend he is now earning.

But, Lonesome George apparently is not one of the highest paid entertainers in show-business, despite this $9,000-a-day salary.

It comes to me in a roundabout way that Tennessee Ernie Ford turned down $10,000 a day to appear before the group that George is going to entertain.

Ernie now is enjoying the greatest popularity in his long career. And he is possibly earning all the money he can handle at this time.

MANY ENTERTAINERS set their asking price over their heads simply because they don't want to overcrowd their schedules with one-day appearances or one-shot guest appearances on TV shows.

Elvis Presley, for instance, set his asking price at $200,000 for 10 minutes when several TV shows asked him to appear prior to his induction into the Army.

Presley didn't actually expect to be invited at that price. But, in setting his price so high he got an automatic refusal and at the same time he received the benefit of a raft of good publicity on the strength of it.

Frank Sinatra, also, has turned down fabulous offers of $50,000 and up for a one-night stand on TV.

Sinatra's income, now in the million-dollar category, would not benefit from an additional $50,000 since he is already in the income bracket which permits him to retain only a small portion of his gross earnings.

So it is good to see Ole Lonesome George drawing down a big, fat paycheck. When he came to Atlanta the first time I predicted that one day he would break into the big time.

I never thought he'd be earning $9,000 a day, though.

SPEAKING OF GEORGE GOBEL, he and Eddie Fisher will have another good show tonight when they are hosts to Hermoine Gingold, Salvatore Baccaloni, the King Sisters and Tom D'Andrea. The entire group will be featured in the curtain-raiser, entitled "Superstitions." The closing number will be an equally impressive "Salud" production from the movie "Merry Andrew," in which Baccaloni appears.

THE BUFORD grandmother and high school teacher, Mrs. Myrtle Davis, didn't get to appear before the cameras on the $64,000 Challenge Sunday night. She was supposed to compete with wrestler Lou Plummer on the $16,000 level. Their category is "The Bible."

If the sponsors would dispense with some of the commercial palaver the guests would not be left standing in the wings each week.

MARVIN COOPER of Atlanta writes: "Re: your opinion on jazz and the show of last night (April 30) in particular: It is my sincere opinion that you're a consummate ass."

W. HARMON RUSSELL, of Decatur writes: "As a male daytime TV viewer, I want to join the gals in howling against magnetic tape recording. Come on, gals, let's howl this magnetic tape thing into oblivion."

TV and Radio Highlights

Turn to Jack Paar
For Midnight Laughs

PAUL JONES' PICK OF THE DAY—Some of the best entertainment on television comes in the late hours. I have in mind particularly the Jack Paar show, a sort of ad lib production which features the free-style comedy of Mr. Paar and a group of other personalities who sing and dance as well.

I think the production tonight is going to be especially delightful because of the appearance of a fellow named Dave Gardner, an immensely funny comic who has appeared in Atlanta on several occasions. He has met with such tremendous favor on the Paar show that NBC has signed him to a long-term contract.

The Paar show happens at 11:15 each night on Channel 11.

Jerry Lewis Rehearsing
For Comedy Colorcast

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Jerry Lewis has begun rehearsals for the Friday, May 16, full-hour colorcast of the Jerry Lewis Show (NBC-TV, 10 p.m.).

The comedian returned by air after a two-week engagement at the London Palladium, bringing a filmed comedy sketch made in London with the British comedy team, the Nitwits.

The sketch will be used in Jerry's final colorcast of the season on May 16. Jerry met the 10-man team while playing the Palladium and liked the group so much that he joined the 10-man group in a skit, in order to introduce them to his American audience.

Jerry's "in-person" guest on the comedy colorcast will be veteran showman George Jessel.

Singer-comedienne Dody Goodman will make 10 appearances as a special guest on NBC radio's Bert Parks' Bandstand in the next six weeks.

Miss Goodman has been scheduled to perform on Tuesdays and Thursdays during May and June. The dates are: May 6, 8, 20, 22, 27 and 29, and June 3, 5, 10 and 12. (Bert Parks' Bandstand is presented Mondays through Fridays, 11:05 a.m.—noon.)

On the program of Tuesday, May 6, she will do a comedy skit with Al Kelly, widely known as a "virtuoso of double-talk."

Dr. Linus Pauling, one of the leaders in the fight to end the testing of nuclear weapons, will be the guest on Meet the Press Sunday, May 11 (NBC-TV, 6:30 p.m., NBC radio as part of Monitor—6:30-7 p.m.).

Road Deaths Decreasing, Griffin Finds

Gov. Griffin reported Monday that highway traffic deaths in Georgia are down 60 from last year's toll.

The governor made the announcement in a statement that praised the State Patrol and slapped at the Atlanta newspapers.

Griffin said there were 129 fewer deaths on the highways in 1957 than the preceding year. As of Sunday, he said this year's record is 60 deaths below the same date a year ago.

"This is a commendable record and I am proud of the achievements of the State Patrol," Griffin said.

"Criticism of a constructive nature is always welcome," he added, "however, the constant destructive criticism of the Atlanta newspapers is neither welcome nor helpful."

Griffin did not elaborate on his charge of "destructive criticism." However, The Atlanta Journal reported last week that some state troopers have been given second-chance examinations under the Merit System in order to qualify for their jobs.

Griffin also praised the patrol, other law enforcement officials and the state's radio-television industry for the "deathless week-end" operation.

He said that although there were seven deaths, he wanted to commend the officers and sponsors for reducing the death toll "every day in the year."

BLIMP PLUGS BONDS—A U.S. Navy blimp from the Glynnco Naval Air Station at Brunswick prepared to take off from Dobbins Air Force Base after hovering over Atlanta Monday trailing a tow sign: "Buy Savings Bonds." The blimp's appearance marked opening of "Share in America" week, a campaign aimed at increasing payroll savings plans for bond buyers.

What calories are non-fattening?

All the calories that you use up are non-fattening

The average adult uses up about 2,500 calories every day

There are only 18 calories in a teaspoonful of sugar

And sugar often helps you eat fewer calories

Why new concept of lasting weight control calls for normal use of sugar

One of the nicest things about nutrition research is that it so often gives us the reassurance that we've been right all along in enjoying the foods we like.

This is just what has been happening in the case of one of our best liked foods—your old friend sugar. And here, in the answers to your questions, are some of the reasons we're lucky that we do like it.

Q. Why can many people use a normal amount of sugar—without counting calories or worrying about their waistlines?

A. Ideally, you should spend a calorie as energy for every calorie taken in as food. In healthy, normal-weight adults, appetite keeps calorie input balanced with energy output without any conscious effort. Remember, calories that are spent for energy can never be deposited as fat. The only kind that can be the surplus calories that come from overeating.

Q. How about sugar in weight-control diets?

A. For people who have a tendency to gain weight easily, successful lasting weight control is a matter of "re-educating" the appetite to the point where you feel satisfied with just the right amount of food. This is almost impossible to do with stop-and-go dieting, by changing to foods that you do not normally eat, or by experimenting with misleading "eat-all-you-want" diets. The most successful program is the easiest to follow. You eat the same foods you normally do. Don't cut out anything you like—simply cut down. Sugar, due to its great satiety value, makes it easier to cut down, keep your appetite happily satisfied with smaller portions and without second helpings.

Q. How about "sugar-free" foods and no-calorie sweeteners?

A. These products have been tried and found wanting in an important study of overweight people made by a leading university. It was found that people who gave up sugar entirely lost no more weight than those who used sugar regularly in their diets. The scales did not show that people were losing weight by using artificial sweeteners—even after 3 years of use.

Q. Whether you want to slim down, or simply to stay as slim as you are, isn't it good to know that there's no real need, no valid scientific reason to deny yourself the unique satisfaction that only sugar—nature's own pure-food sweetener—can supply?

Air Crash Victims Married

MOUNT AIRY, N.C. (AP)—An Ohio couple, proving that a plane crash and broken bones can't alter the course of true love, exchanged marriage vows in a hospital room here Monday.

The bride, Barbara Foley, a 28-year-old interviewer of brides for an Ohio television station, and the groom, Emil Tengea, 39, of Akron, Ohio, clasped hands—hospital bed to wheel chair—as a local minister read the ceremony.

"I just love the South, and this must be true Southern hospitality," said the beaming bride to the hospital staff who, with the help of Mount Airy citizens, made arrangements for the ceremony.

The couple had planned to stop over in Asheville last Monday on their way from Atlanta, Ga., to Akron, but bad weather forced them to try to reach Charleston, W. Va.

Their four-engine private plane developed engine trouble and crashed near Meadows of Dan, Va., April 29. With them were Tengea's brother, Ronnie, 15, and his daughter by a previous marriage, Judy, 16, who escaped serious injury.

Water Ski Jumper

Hurt in Spill Here

A water ski performer was slightly injured Monday when she evidently misjudged distance on a high jump, police said.

Miss Frances Quante, 22, a member of the Tommy Bartlett water ski show performing at Lakewood Park, fell during the high jump and landed face down in the lake. Patrolman D. L. Prince said. She was rushed to Grady Hospital and later dismissed.

MOVIE REVIEW

Young Lions An Explosive War Drama

By PAUL JONES

Irwin Shaw's best-seller novel, "The Young Lions" has been transformed into a movie which is certain to be among the best and most profitable film productions of 1958. This film, now at the Fox Theater, is a story of three young men and of how World War II affected their lives. It is a blockbuster—a Montgomery Clift story with real emotional impact. Here is a story of fictional characters which comes alive on the giant screen through the magic of great direction and sensitive acting.

Shaw's story is built around a young Jew, portrayed by Montgomery Clift; a brash Broadway character, portrayed by Dean Martin, and a Nazi lieutenant, impersonated by Marlon Brando. The story develops in Paris during the war, in American Army camps and in concentration camps. It goes to North Africa for the campaign there and it closes in for intimate glimpses of these men and the women they love.

With this film's star cast, no one is worried about its box office potential. But this is the kind of movie that would come out a winner with a bunch of also-rans in the cast. The story is great and the manner in which Edward Dmytryk has interpreted it in terms of picture, mood and sound is something of which the motion picture industry can be proud.

But I don't for a minute want to take away from the magnificent performances of the three leading players, or for that matter from the sensitive, restrained work of the two female leads, Hope Lang and Barbara Rush.

"The Young Lions" is first-rate theater. See it.

$2 Million Stolen, Recovered

MONTREAL (AP)—Police Monday seized a suspect and recovered most of the two million dollars worth of securities stolen from a bank in Canada's biggest robbery.

The robbery was staged over the weekend at the Brockville Savings and Trust Co. at Brockville, Ont., by safecrackers who cut their way through steel-plated walls. The loot included cashable bearer bonds and negotiable securities that could be shipped out of Canada and converted into cash.

The arrest and recovery of the securities came several hours after the robbery was disclosed Monday morning.

Montreal Constable Roger Faber arrested the suspect, Rene Martin, 24, of Montreal, single-handedly after a wild chase in the city's east end. Detectives questioned Martin and then picked up the securities from a luggage locker in Montreal's central station.

Police said that "at least a major part of the loot was recovered—possibly all of it." The loot included two million dollars in bearer securities and bonds, $15,000 in cash and an unknown amount in non-negotiable securities.

Brockville, which is directly across the St. Lawrence River from Morristown, N. Y., is about 125 miles up the river from Montreal and about 60 miles south of Toronto.

RAINY NIGHT IN LITTLE ROCK

Bates Calls Phillips to the Rescue at Shortstop

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

LITTLE ROCK—Dick Phillips, an outfielder-third baseman by trade, will make his debut as Atlanta Cracker shortstop much sooner than anticipated—Tuesday night, to be specific.

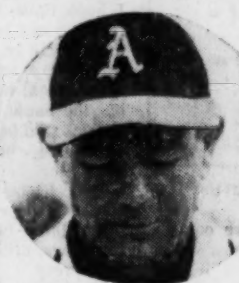

In fact, Phillips, who has swung a .350 bat in behalf of skipper Buddy Bates since reporting from Wichita 11 days ago, would have made his break-in appearance at short Monday night except for one thing: There was no game.

Near flood conditions on the Arkansas River and 1.04 inches of rain that fell on Little Rock in a 24-hour period delayed the suddenness of Phillips' quick-change artist act by at least 24 hours.

Necessity for shifting Phillips to shortstop immediately was brought about by a surprise decision of third baseman Mike Krsnich to give up the professional baseball ghost and take a job in his West Allis, Wis., home town.

Krsnich, apparently brooding over a plummeting batting average while hitting in the clean-up spot for Atlanta, told Bates before Monday morning's departure from Atlanta that he is quitting "because I've decided I'm not going to get anywhere in pro ball."

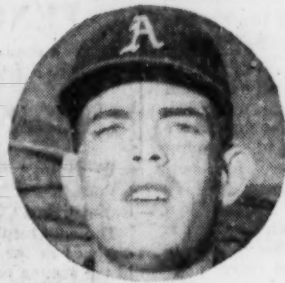

Bates was unable to dissuade him from his decision and "give it one more try on the road trip," and the club employed without him.

The club departed with a squad that is two players short of the Southern Assn. limit of 19, because outfielder Carl Powis was sold outright Monday to Victoria of the Texas League. (All clubs must cut roster to 18 players by May 10, however.)

Veteran Sammy Meeks, who has wielded the Southern's most potent bat for the last two weeks, will move from shortstop to third when the Crackers belatedly open the Little Rock series at 8:45 (Atlanta time) Tuesday night.

Bates has planned all along to try Phillips at shortstop and, although Dandy Dick has played in center and left field for the last 11 days, he has been working out at short.

"I don't know whether I can play the position well enough to get the job done in a AA league like the Southern or not," says Phillips. "Neither does Buddy. But if he wants me to give it a try, it suits me fine.

"I like infield better than outfield anyway, and I did play short some in high school. If it will help the club, I'm all for it," reasons the fellow who has often been described as "the league's most underrated player."

Southpaw-hitting Phillips batted 254 last year at Atlanta. But he whaled .342 and .320 at Evansville and Eau Claire in 1955, playing part time for each club. He was voted "rookie of the year" for his play at Eau Claire of the Northern League.

Krsnich, with the Crackers less than two weeks after being sent down from Wichita, was hitting .259 when he decided to quit. The 26-year-old service veteran smote 33 home runs and batted .349 in 117 games at Topeka (Class A Western League) last season. He had hit two round trippers as a Cracker. He'll be put on the voluntary retirement list.

Powis, batting .254, had 16 hits including a homer in 63 trips. He came to the Crackers in a preseason deal with Louisville for second baseman Frank DiPrima.

The 28-year-old Powis, a star of several crack Fort McPherson nines while in the service, played

Nine-Run Ninth Falls Short And Pirates Tie for NL Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates gained a share of the National League lead with Chicago Monday, notwithstanding a nine-run rally by San Francisco in the ninth inning to edge the Giants, 11-10.

The smallest crowd of the season, 5,506 saw the most thrilling game here since major league ball came to the West Coast April 15.

The Pirates, getting their ninth victory in 11 games, scored three runs in their half of the ninth on four hits including a home run by Frank Thomas. Vern Law was pitching and went into the bottom of the ninth with an 11-1 lead.

In the hectic Giants' ninth, in which they pummeled four Pirate pitchers, the San Francisco Giants tied a National League record with three pinch hits in one inning. It had been done eight times before, but the last time, ironically, it was between the same teams. That was in a night game July 5, 1957, in the sixth inning. The major league record is four.

Pinch hitters Jim King, Johnny Antonelli and Bob Speake crashed consecutive doubles to bring in five runs. Errors by third baseman Thomas and shortstop Dick Groat kept the rally alive.

It was Groat's bobble of pinch hitter Jim Tynan's grounder that loaded the bases with two outs. Don Taussig hit for Antonelli, up for the second time in the inning, and popped to Bill Mazeroski to end the game.

Jim the Giant Killer

You won't find him in the box scores, but a 45-year-old right-hander has pitched Georgia to two Southeastern Conference baseball championships and a runner-up finish in the last eight seasons.

Perhaps his most stimulating performance was reserved for this spring, when the bite-shy Bulldogs have struggled to stay even.

James W. (Jim) Whatley is among collegiate baseball's greatest coaches, and some say he is the best batting practice pitcher in the game.

His players and rival coaches will tell you Whatley loves and respects baseball with every inch and ounce of his 6-5, 235-pound frame. The 10 varsity letters earned at Alabama, where he accumulated all-SEC basketball and football honors and helped stymie Stanford in the Rose Bowl, well qualify him for his teaching role.

LOGUE

nobody may see it, but your baseball errors go in the records. It's mighty easy for a boy to lose his confidence and get down on himself.

"You can't be too emotional in baseball," continued the tremendous man whose players affectionately call him "Silent Jim" (when he's out of hearing range).

"One day you're a hero, and the next day you're a goat. You can't accept either role. If you hit a home run and win a game, you just have to accept it as a fact. And if you strike out with the bases loaded and cost a game, you also have to accept that fact.

—Baseball's No Place for Emotions

"Baseball's a cold-blooded game. But remember this: It takes a lot of courage to go back out and try again after you've booted two easy chances in the infield the inning before."

Big Jim Whatley has spent a lot of seasons developing this philosophy, and a knowledge of inside baseball and sportsmanship that any coach or player would gladly share.

"I first played as a regular on the Alex City (Ala.) High School team when I was 15 years old," Whatley said. "I played first base and pitched batting practice. I've been throwing batting practice for 30 years."

"I do it now so we can get in some hitting," he grinned. "I don't have much speed or stuff on the ball, but I've got control."

"Yes," echoed Wayne Minshew, Whatley's mound ace, "coach knows he's got better control than any of us."

During practice sessions, Whatley also throws to the Bulldogs' weaknesses. One conference coach says he hesitates announcing his starting pitchers before a Georgia series, because Whatley always adopts that pitcher's delivery and style in the week's batting workouts.

Practice makes potent. Consider 1958.

After only a few games, it was painfully apparent Georgia would hit few home runs this time around, even with the batters aiming from second base at Los Angeles Coliseum, much less during Ag Hill's distant fences. Singles were hard to come by, and welcomed like grand-slam homers at Yankee Stadium.

But look again. With three games against Georgia Tech to go, five Bulldog regulars boast better than .300 stick certificates. Catcher R. E. Gladin, a pathetic .218 out customer who found a ready market last season, is fast approaching a final .450 grade in woodcraft. He's hitting to all fields now.

—Whatley Makes a Boy Feel Like a Man

"It's no accident either," appraised a promising Georgia rookie who asked to remain anonymous. "I was reading in the Sporting News the other day where Ernie Banks of the Cubs says he's beginning to learn to hit to right field. We're learning that in college."

"Coach Whatley has one drill in which, for instance, a right-handed batter is out if he hits between second base and third. It's helping our batting averages."

"Practice is fun. There's something different every day. We have several boys on our team who want to be coaches, and they're learning things about baseball they had never heard of."

Though suffering a talent drought, Georgia is the only team to wage even one game through both Eastern Division pace-setters, Florida and Auburn. Whatley's boys alone have caged the Gators. Jim the giant killer brought Georgia its first SEC baseball title in 20 seasons in 1953 with four freshmen among the regulars.

He probably does more with fewer scholarships than any baseball coach in the country.

Whatley's biggest personal sports thrills now come from wrestling a belligerent bass from its lake retreat.

His funniest baseball experience?

"That was in 1934 at Ozark, Ala.," he said. "One of our Dothan players was called out on three straight close plays at first. He charged the umpire, who pulled out a switchblade knife and started chasing the boy around the fence. They ran until the ump collapsed."

Has baseball changed much since then?

"No," Whatley smiled, "but I don't think umpires carry knives any more."

Whatley's position on the Olympic baseball committee and NCAA rules committee reveal the respect of fellow coaches.

Mercer Harris, veteran Cardinal scout, says "Jim is a student of the game and loves it. He gets as much out of green boys as anybody I know."

"You get to feeling pretty low when you're in a batting slump or holding trouble," a Georgia player said, "but Coach Whatley has a way of making you feel like a man again. I guess that's because he's such a big man himself."

And I guess that's about all Jim Whatley or any other man can hope to be.

Ward Reinstated by USGA, Plans To Enter National Am

Suspension Ends Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvie Ward Jr. of San Francisco, winner of the National Amateur golf championship in 1955 and 1956, regains his amateur status Tuesday after serving a year's suspension for accepting unauthorized tournament expenses.

The announcement was made Monday by Joe Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Assn.

At the time of his suspension Harvie made immediate application for a return to good standing. In the interim he was barred from all amateur tournaments under USGA sponsorship. In other tournaments he played under the status of "AR," which means "applicant for amateur reinstatement."

Harvie thus becomes eligible to try for his third National Amateur crown at the Olympic Club in San Francisco, his home town, Sept. 8-13. The event was won last year by Hillman Robbins of Memphis.

Ward said the reinstatement made him "very happy" and that he would start getting his game in shape for the National Amateur.

"I'm afraid I kind of let my game go to pot," he said. "But this makes me feel a lot better. I'm going to bear down on my game to get ready."

Ward was set down for accepting expense monies from his employer, Ed Lowery, for participation in the Canadian and U. S. Amateur tournaments in 1954.

Lowery, former director of the USGA, disclosed payment of these expenses at a grand jury hearing in connection with income tax evasion charges.

Ward, 32, former college champion from the University of North Carolina, is rated by many as the best amateur golfer in the world.

In addition to his two National Amateur titles, he has won the British Amateur and Canadian Amateur titles and has played on the U.S. Walker Cup team.

Ward, a handsome, baby-faced young man, was both a golfing and business associate in San the touring brigade. But the North Carolinian never has had aspirations to turn pro.

"I play golf strictly for fun," he has said. "I wouldn't enjoy golf if it were a means of livelihood for me and I had to worry about money. I never shall turn professional."

Both Lowery and Ward said they felt they were not violating amateur rules when Harvie was given tournament expenses by his employer.

Bosox Ride 'Riverboat' By Indians

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox made it seven victories in 11 games Monday in thumping the Cleveland Indians 8-5 before 2,387 hardy souls who braved the dampness and 46 degree temperature.

The Sox put the game out of the Indians' reach in the sixth inning when they batted around for their final four runs.

The victory was credited to rookie southpaw Bob "Riverboat" Smith although he was helped over the final inning and two-thirds by Frank Sullivan, a right-hander.

The Sox now have two victories in as many days from left-handers. For the entire 1957 season, Boston received two victories from southpaws.

Ray Narleski, the first of four Indian pitchers, was charged with the loss. His record now is 3-2.

The Orioles obtained Jack Harshman and Larry Doby from the White Sox and gave up Tito Francona, Billy Goodman and Ray Moore last Dec. 2. Six weeks later they sent Doby to Cleveland and secured Gene Woodling. Here's the way it's worked out so far.

Gene Woodling Jack Harshman

Tigers Smile Over Martin

Harshman, who reportedly had a bad back last season, has won four games and lost none, while compiling a 1.00 earned run average. Woodling has made a big hit with the Orioles' fans although he's batting only .262. Gene has hit one home run and driven in eight runs.

Goodman, is hitting only .120. Francona an anemic .162 and Moore has no pitching decisions. Doby has collected only three hits in 15 tries for a .200 average for the Indians.

The Senators made a good deal by securing first baseman Norm Zauchin and outfielder Albie Pearson from Boston. They gave up Pete Runnels, who is batting .329 for the Red Sox. But Zauchin and Pearson have solved two of Washington's major problems and are largely responsible for the team's high position in the pennant race. Zauchin shows a .327 mark and Pearson is at .319.

The swap that moved Minnie Minoso to Cleveland in exchange for Al Smith and Early Wynn also is working to the disadvantage of the White Sox. Smith has made only nine hits in 51 at bats for a .176 mark. Wynn has won only one of three decisions. Minoso, meanwhile, has 21 safeties in 74 trips for a .284 slate. Minni also has collected three homers and 11 RBIs.

The Bob Purkey for Don Gross trade has helped both Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. Purkey has a 3-0 record and a 1.97 ERA for the Redlegs while Gross has yet to yield his first run in 11 1/3 innings for the Pirates. Don has won one game and lost none.

The multiple player deal involving Detroit and Kansas City has hurt neither club. Billy Martin is outting .370 and big Gus Zernial .385 for the Tigers. Bill Tuttle, a crackjack defensive outfielder, is at .259 and Frank House has a grand-slam homer among eight hits for the Athletics.

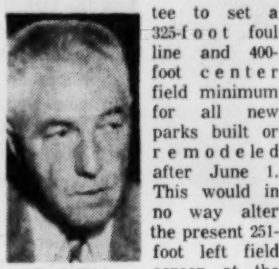

Perhaps the biggest bargain on the winter market was Mickey Vernon. The veteran first baseman, a two-time American League batting champion, was tied for the batting lead with Chicago's Sherman Lollar after Sunday's games. Each was hitting .390.

Vernon was purchased by Cleveland from the Boston Red Sox. The price was around $20,000.

A MINIMUM FOR THE FUTURE

Don't Fence Us In So Close, Frick Urges

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick is asking the playing rules committee to set a 325-foot foul line and 400-foot center field minimum for all new parks built or remodeled after June 1. This would in no way alter the present 251-foot left field screen at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Although Frick admitted the short fence in Los Angeles had prodded him into action, he said his thoughts on minimum foul lines and uniform parks were not inspired by the Dodgers' playing field.

Frick said he was writing a letter Monday to James T. Gallagher of the Philadelphia Phillies who is chairman of the official playing rules committee. He asked Gallagher to take a mail vote of his 10-man committee so that a definite rule could be put in the books by all-Star Game time in July.

The only mention of home run distance in the present rules is in the section covering the playing field. It reads like this:

"The distance from home base to the nearest fence, stand or other obstruction on fair ground shall be 250 feet or more. A distance of 320 feet or more along the foul lines and 400 feet or more to center field is preferable."

Frick said he had been concerned about the 250-foot home run rule for some time and long had favored standardized ball parks. He also said he had suggested that a rule be drawn up to prevent any new temporary fence to be erected closer than 400 feet to home plate. Again, this would not effect parks already in use, such as the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"There is nothing we can do about parks that have been built," said Frick. "But I have a hunch that 10 or 15 new parks will be constructed in the majors and minors in the next four or five years. We want them to know the minimum distances while they still are in the blueprint stages."

Frick said he had suggested at one time that a secondary screen be erected in the Los Angeles Coliseum but understood some California laws would not permit any such structure in the middle of a section where people normally sit.

"I don't think it is a good situation in Los Angeles," said Frick. "But it is a temporary

Yanks' Kubek Signs For Ol' Army Game

Campy Sets Rehabilitation; Chattanooga Ships Waters

Young Tony Kubek will swap his Yankee pin stripes for khaki after all.

Kubek, 22-year-old New York infielder - outfielder, was sworn into the Army Reserve Corps Monday in Milwaukee for a six months' active duty tour.

He is allowed a 120-day period before reporting if he desires it. Kubek, who less than a month ago denied that he planned to enter the reserve, was sworn in by the same officer—Maj. Gerald Mulrine—who first told newsmen Kubek planned to join. Mulrine said Kubek gave no reason for not appearing April 17 to take the oath.

Kubek could not be reached at home and his father said Kubek planned to return to New York Monday night.

MORE BASEBALL—Cleveland sold pitcher Steve Ridzik outright to its San Diego farm of the Pacific Coast League and pitcher Clarence Church to Seattle of the PCL.

Los Angeles catcher Roy Campanella, still paralyzed from the waist down, has been moved to the Rusk Institute in New York to begin a rehabilitation program.

Chattanooga shipped pitcher Fred Waters to Salt Lake City of the PCL and Evelio Hernandez to Charlotte of the Sally League.

St. Louis Cardinal general manager Bing Devine made another bid for Cincinnati catcher Smoky Burgess and listened to trade offers by the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Cards are seeking a Wally Moon for Burgess deal and reports say the Dodgers would like to peddle outfielder Duke Snider. Pittsburgh lost catcher Hank Foiles when he was hit on the elbow by a Ruben Gomez pitch.

MISCELLANY—D. M. Ferguson, president of the Lawn Tennis Assn. of Australia, said there is no possibility of the LTAA reconsidering its decision on Mal Anderson's overseas tour. Anderson had asked permission to take his wife along and LTAA said no, unless he paid her fare.

The AAU has banned the Russian jumping shoe in all AAU-sanctioned competition. A Russian bettered the world record using the shoe with built-up sole.

Six players joined St. Louis Hawks' owner Ben Kerner in a conference to select a new coach for the National Basketball Assn. champs. Prominent candidates are Jim Pollard, ex-Minneapolis Laker; Andy Philip, recently retired Boston Celtic; Al Cervi, former Syracuse player and Richie Regan, Seton Hall freshman coach.

reasonably well but had fielding and base running deficiencies that made him expendable.

For the time being, Bates has catcher Jimmy Callaway as "infield insurance" until Wichita makes further squad cuts. At that time, it is likely the Crackers will gain some pitching help also.

The "traffic jam" in the Cracker outfield has been dispelled by sale of Powis and the shift of Phillips.

Gainesville Tops Druids

Gainesville southpaw John Nuckolls pushed his shutout string to 23 innings Monday with a one-hit, 5-0 victory over Druid Hills in the 4-AA East playoff at Gainesville.

Nuckolls, who is 6-0 for the season, fanned 12 and walked five. He now has given up only two hits in the last 23 innings. Monday's was of the scratch variety off the bat of Pat Brennan.

The best of three series moves to Westminster Wednesday at 4:15 p.m.

Elsewhere in Georgia prep circles, Tucker defeated Conyers, 8-3, while Lithonia was dumping Clarkston by the same count. Thus Tucker claimed the Region 4-B, Area 1 championship.

of Sunday's 2-1 decision over New Orleans, will remain in center.

Reynolds and Bob Montag both were only recently put back on the active list. Reynolds, who suffered a fractured skull in a spring training, is ready to play again.

Montag, still a question mark but ready to give part-time playing a try, sat out early season while recuperating from a winter knee operation. He is the all-time Cracker homer king, having blasted 39 in 1954.

Bates will stick with Paul Cave (2-2) as his pitching selection for the opener here. Little Rock pilot Les Peden, who leads his own team in hitting with a .320 average, will go with lefty Jack Bober (0-3), who was 11-7 at Abilene last season.

SC's Johnson Yields Reins

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Frank Johnson, head basketball coach at the University of South Carolina for 15 seasons, resigned Monday and will be succeeded by freshman coach Walter Hambrick.

Johnson becomes business manager of athletics at the University. His Gamecocks had a poor 5-19 showing this year and finished tied for sixth in the Atlantic Coast Conference standings.

Johnson had been serving in a dual capacity since joining the Gamecocks staff in 1940, acting both as basketball coach and athletics business manager.

Giardello Beats Rory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sharp-shooting Joey Giardello knocked Rory Calhoun down for counts of nine in the fourth round and six in the fifth to win a unanimous 10-round decision as the two ranking middleweights battled here Monday night.

A crowd of about 10,000 in the Cow Palace gave both fighters a round of applause after their brilliant scrap. Counterpunching beautifully, Giardello built up a big early lead. In the fourth he caught the powerful Calhoun with a right-left-right combination to the head that put Calhoun on the canvas. Referee Vern Bybee counted nine before Calhoun reached his feet and weathered the round. In the fifth an overhand right, high on the head, put Calhoun down again but this time he was up at six.

Rains Halt Tests At Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Forty drivers and mechanics of 37 cars marked time Monday while a cold rain kept the Indianapolis Motor Speedway closed.

Juan Manuel Fangio, world road racing champion from Argentina, and other Speedway rookies hoped to work on their driver's tests but the 2 1/2-mile brick and asphalt oval was too slick.

Phils Club Dodgers, 8-3

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gran Hamner drove in five runs with a bases-loaded triple and the 100th home run of his career Monday night as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3.

Rookie right-hander Ray Semproch won his third in his second complete game for the Phillies, giving up just five hits and striking out two. He walked five—two of them in the fourth, when a wild pitch, infield out and Carl Furillo's one-on-one homer counted the Dodgers' three runs.

REPORT FROM OUTDOORS

Game Folks Have Seen Enough Of Fire Ant Eradication Plan

By JIM CARSON

The battle lines are clearly drawn.

Thinking of wildlife authorities on the fire ant eradication program in Georgia and Alabama is split. Two reports I have seen this week defined this even more specifically than before the program was initiated.

Entomologists conducting the eradication say all is well. And that no more game and fish are being killed than was expected.

Wildlife experts say they are convinced that the program has damaged wildlife and is now endangering human life.

This difference of opinion was to be expected when the program was launched.

But now some of our Georgia game officials who adopted a wait-and-see policy admit they have seen enough.

There is definitely a war on between these factions, and there'll be more news on this front shortly.

OUTDOOR NOTES—R. J. Roebuck (Atlanta) a regular at Mac's Fishing Ranch near Fairburn, caught a 4-pounder there this weekend. This should be the best season yet at that lake, now about three years old. . . .

Now's the time at Clark Hill, says Tommy Shaw. And here are some catches to prove it is good fishing there: G. H. Verner Jr., (Norcross), 5 bass up to 6 1/2 pounds on lizards. . . . Homer Witcher (Monroe), 29 crappie on minnows. . . .

PRIMITIVE SPLENDOR OF FORESTS SHOULD BE PROTECTED

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Constitution Outdoor Columnist
I've stuck my neck out so many times, and on so many subjects, that it's got to where no one at my house will slam a door until they look to see which way I'm pointed. Bob Roberts used to warn me about my neck. He claimed it was his experience in the Army that guys who poked their heads over the trenches to see what was going on were the ones who stopped all the lead. But shucks! Who wants to go around dull and un-shot-at all the time?
So, in the awkward position of my neck stretched and both brogans in my mouth—where they are accustomed to being—I'll make a flight into the latest discussion which seems to be developing between some very important citizens of our state and the officials who reputedly administer our public lands. For this does concern a matter of which all persons who feel a kinship for the outdoors should at least be aware.

Charles Elliott

The problem is wilderness areas. There has been much said about these primitive tracts in Congress—and recently, too. Some of our national solons are farsighted enough to realize that at least a small segment of our country should be set aside and forever preserved as a part of primitive America in all of its pristine beauty.

In states adjoining us, we have a couple of national parks where this has been done—no areas in our national forests. In other states, particularly in the West, we do have several large tracts which have been kept inviolate of roads and of the lumberman's ax and saw.

The one with which I am most familiar lies in that tremendous triangle between the Absaroka Range and Continental Divide, south of Yellowstone National Park in western Wyoming. Only trails penetrate this almost unbelievably spectacular region of forested mountains, of lakes the color of sapphire and cold, clean streams.

Each year, hundreds of Americans visit this wilderness area. They go by trail, horseback and afoot. They fish almost virgin waters, which would be fished out if automobile roads ran beside them.

They see elk, deer, bears and moose—perhaps as abundant as they were in the days when Jim Bridger made his first rough camp in those mountain wilds—but still plentiful enough to be an integral part of that far-flung mountainscape. There are roads to other scenic and beautiful parts of that country, and they are enjoyed by the average American tourist-in-a-hurry, who wants his sights served up to him from the comfort of an auto cushion.

The wilderness areas are something special, and each year an increasing number of citizens with a yen to get back of beyond and see the mountains in their unspoiled unimbered beauty, make pilgrimages into them.

Now the movement in under way by a few prominent and farsighted men in our own state to protect segments of the southern Appalachians, to preserve them in their virgin beauty—or at least what's left of it—as they were in days of the Cherokees.

The opposition they have is mostly from officials who administer those public lands. Unfortunately, at least some of those officials seem to have forgotten that they are public servants, employed and paid by the people who have to help carry a part of the tremendous tax load.

Sometime along the line, the civil-servicers seem to have picked up an idea that the property belongs to them—and that they can do with it what they doggone please, including bulldozed roads along remote trout streams and cutting every stick of timber that will make a two-by-four. At least that is the tone of a few letters I have seen.

We need tree farms, to supply our hungry demands for tree and forest products. But I'll add my small voice to the plea that somewhere in our mountains, at least a few acres be saved for their primitive, rugged beauty alone.

Is it too much to ask that out of all the public lands, at least some of those most remote and inaccessible be left as "hyacinths for thy soul?"

Crews, shooting with the Savannah Archery Club, captured the Georgia championship Sunday in the state shoot at the Atlanta club's range.

Elm Trees Yelp 'Help,' So Here Comes Rescue

Georgia and National Agencies Start Attack on Hardwood Pest

By JIM CARSON

A method of controlling the elm spanworm (snow-white linden moth) pest in the Chattahoochee National Forest of North Georgia will get the joint study of federal and state foresters, entomologists and game and fish technicians.

The U.S. Forest Service Monday announced plans for the joint pilot test to be conducted later this month and in early June.

Efforts to coordinate all agencies interested in the protection of watersheds, wildlife, recreation and timber comes on the heels of the fire ant control program under heavy attack now by conservationists.

In the attack, some state conservation departments have charged that the U.S. Department of Agriculture entered an eradication program without first studying its effect on wildlife.

The Forest Service's announcement of a joint test-before-application program apparently is pointed at avoiding duplication of the fire ant conflict.

The elm spanworm is a hardwood defoliator which has reached epidemic status in the forests of the Southern Appalachians.

Entomologists estimated that this insect defoliated trees on 5,000 acres in 1955, 50,000 acres in 1956 and 300,000 acres in 1957.

Preliminary studies show that the trees most commonly attacked are the hickories and oaks.

Airplane applications of a DDT solution (1 pound of chemical in 1 gallon of carrier per acre) involving 300 acres of test area will be made on the Chattahoochee.

Foresters will study the spraying effects to determine the practicability of using such control means for the protection of watersheds and preservation of roadside and recreation areas.

Game and fish technicians of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Georgia Game and Fish Commission will be on hand to determine the effects of the tests on fish and game and the possibility of using this means to help preserve the trees valuable for game food and shelter.

Director Fulton Lovell of the Georgia Game and Fish Commission Monday expressed satisfaction with the plan of coordination.

NEW YORK (AP)—Selective strength featured an uneven stock market and the statistics had enough of an upside edge to put the market at another new high for 1958.

Turnover of 2,670,000 shares made it a fairly active day and compared with 2,290,000 on Friday.

ANY NUDE

The market finished last week at the latest of a string of new highs for the year so any kind of upward nudging marks a new 1958 summit.

Leading stocks generally showed changes within a 1-point range but there were some advances of 2 points or so among secondary issues. Gainers on the most active list were dominated by lower-priced issues.

The market was a bit higher at the opening. In the early rush the ticker tape was a minute behind floor transactions for a spell of three minutes. As turnover slackened prices turned mixed. They remained that way until late afternoon when the balance began to tilt toward the upside.

STEEL BOOST

Market background included another boost in steel industry output figures, word of higher construction outlays and more demand for steel due to increased building activity.

Prices were mixed on the American Exchange. Gainers included General Development, Maule and Thiokol. Among losers were Fairchild Camera, Home Oil A and Pacific Petroleum. Volume was 960,000 shares compared with 910,000 Friday.

Corporate bonds and U.S. government bonds were a bit higher.

POLICE JOIN HUNT

Dog Lost, Bobby, 10, Won't Move

Police Monday took time out from a busy routine to try to help a 10-year-old boy locate his missing dog.

Bobby Janoski and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Janoski of Huntsville, Ala., were visiting Atlanta.

The Janoskis drove downtown to purchase a pair of shoes for Bobby, whose health has not been good.

They left Bobby's inseparable companion, a brown and white fox terrier named "Skippy," in their car at a parking lot at Spring and Cain streets, NW.

When they returned "Skippy" was gone. Janoski said the small dog evidently squirmed out an opening in a window.

Bobby refused to budge from the parking lot without his dog. The Janoskis contacted police.

For the first time in many years, a description of a missing dog was broadcast over the police radio.

The Janoskis, meanwhile, settled down to wait at the parking lot.

"I just don't know what we can do if the dog isn't found," Janoski said. "Bobby just plain refuses to leave without him."

FIRST CALL—Dr. S. Walter Martin, Emory University president, makes the call that Monday launched the 1958 Emory loyalty fund campaign. Within the next three weeks nearly 6,000 Emory alumni will be reached by telephone and asked to support the drive.

Young Intruder Solves Own Case for Police Here

Police Monday said they encountered one highly cooperative burglary suspect.

Patrolmen C. N. Wingo and W. D. Westbrook said it happened this way:

They answered a call to 689 Elkmont Dr., NE, and talked with Mrs. Clarisse R. Berner. Mrs. Berner said she had driven up to her home and heard someone run out the back door as she entered the front.

While the officers talked with Mrs. Berner, the telephone rang. The caller asked to speak with one of the policeman. Wingo got on the line.

"Officer," a small boy's voice said, "I'm the one you want. I broke in to that house."

Before Wingo could think of something to say, the caller hurried on:

"Do you want me to come down there and get in the police car?" Wingo said that would be fine.

A 14-year-old boy appeared, climbed into the back seat of the police car and hung his head.

"I got in through a kitchen window," he was quoted. "I found a pocketbook with $18 in it... but I didn't take a thing."

"I heard them coming and I ran and climbed back out the same window."

Wingo said Mrs. Berner verified that a purse left in the house with $18 still contained the money.

"I just don't know why I did it," the youth was quoted.

Sanitation in 3 Counties Stands Highest in U.S.

The State Health Department reported Monday that three Georgia counties—Spalding, Houston and Lamar—have the highest official sanitation standing in the nation.

In its annual report, the department said the three counties carry out regular sanitation inspections of milk, housing, tourist courts, schools and hospitals.

Dr. T. F. Sellers, department director, reported that every phase of public health work was expanded during 1957. He said the department has an annual budget of more than $18 million.

Sellers commended Georgia communities that have added fluoride to their drinking water. He said 666,000 persons in 53 communities now have fluoridated water.

The report said Georgia's birth rate in 1957 was just under 100,000. It reported 32,373 deaths and 50,264 marriages last year.

The number of births in 1957 was slightly less than in the previous three years.

Sellers said two new health districts were activated in 1957, bringing the total to 20. Eventually there will be 38.

Other highlights of the report:

1. Construction was begun on 10 hospitals or health centers and work was completed on 23. The department administered almost $6.5 million in federal, state and local funds for such construction.

2. A crippled children's clinic was opened at Macon bringing the total to nine. More than 7,000 children received treatment in these centers last year.

3. The state provided financial aid for treatment for about 4,000 cancer patients. Admissions to tuberculosis hospitals numbered 1,724—second highest in history of the hospitals.

4. Rabies is no longer a problem in Georgia and is confined largely to wildlife.

5. Syphilis declined during the year but there was an increase in primary and secondary syphilis reported. Dr. Sellers attributed this to concentration on early case finding through new techniques.

Atlantan's Son Wins Fulbright

Endicott is now living in San Francisco. He is a graduate of Emory University. The scholarship is for one year's study at the University of Melbourne.

Endicott and his wife will sail from San Francisco on July 31. He was recommended for the award by Emory University. The Fulbright Scholarship is a federal government grant for foreign study.

Integration Suits Probed For Barratry

Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver Monday named three senators to a committee which will try to determine whether Georgia's barratry laws were broken in recent Atlanta school integration suits.

Vandiver appointed Sens. Glenn W. Ellard of Cornelia, George Jackson of Gray and Carl Sanders of Augusta.

The committee was created by a House resolution ostensibly to determine whether the state needs any more barratry laws.

But it is known the committee will look into the Atlanta integration suits.

Two years ago the General Assembly broadened Georgia's barratry laws to make it a crime for a third person to encourage law suits.

The present committee has subpoena powers.

House members are William Campbell of Walker County, Harold L. Murphy of Haralson County and Ben B. Ross of Lincoln County.

The division of men's work which Patterson has headed the past nine years is under the denominational Board of Christian Education, with offices at Richmond.

ris and Grover K. Gaddis, all of the Atlanta area.

The four outstanding students present from Emory were: Richard T. Lee, Birmingham, Ala.; Albert G. Norman Jr., Atlanta; Hoke L. Smith, Glen Ellen, Ill., and John S. Dodd Jr., LaGrange, Ga.

Are the Ponies Best? You Judge at Circus

By JAMES SHEPPARD

"I like the ponies best," yelled Jay from behind a batch of cotton candy strung ear to ear. "The clowns are all so silly."

Jay Gordon, "almost 6," of 1170 Virginia Ave., NE, and his buddy, Joe Burch, "7½," of 1760 Helen Dr., NE, went to see the "dazzling, 2½-hour Shrine Indoor Circus Monday night.

"Isn't it exciting watching those roaring lions jump at that man!" chimed in Joe, his wideopen eyes focused on trainer Dick Clemens commanding 10 jungle-bred beasts.

Twenty-three acts—every one tops—brought laughter, spitting-sensations and thunderous applause from those who witnessed this fast-moving and colorful show.

LESS THAN 2,000

The first nighters numbered fewer than 2,000. If you missed this terrific show, you will have opportunity to see it at 3:15 and 8:15 p.m. daily through Saturday and at 1:30 and 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

All of the acts kept the audience spellbound, but to single out a few of the highlights:

1. A drum-beating chimpanzee which played while two other chimps jitter-bugged and tangoed.

2. Dieter Tasso of Berlin, Germany, billed as "The Wonder of Equilibrium" who, balancing himself on a tight wire, flipped with his toes to head four cups and saucers, a sugar bowl and a spoon.

DANCING DOGS

3. Aldo Christiani and 10 Doberman Pinschers which, among other tricks, danced to "Turkey in the Straw."

4. "The Great Beckett" and his self-propelled aerial loop swing.

5. Ten pretty ballerinas who put on an amazing aerial ballet, using tight ropes for a dance floor. A costumed Shriner from Yaarab Temple, circus sponsor, stood in the rain outside the auditorium selling programs for a quarter. "Of course you want a program, neighbor," he smiled. "You're helping a good cause, for nearly every penny will aid crippled children."

KIDNAP HOAX

Baby Left In Store By Mother

A 35-year-old mother Monday abandoned her baby girl in the rest room of a Ponce de Leon avenue department store and later reported it kidnapped, police said.

Dets. Harry McCallister and E. F. McKillop said a half dozen police cars were scouring the area near Grady Hospital for the kidnapers when it was discovered that the infant had been brought to the Grady pediatric ward.

FOUND IN DRESSING ROOM

The baby was discovered at noon in a dressing room of Sears, Roebuck & Co. on Ponce de Leon Ave., NE, police said. A note, printed, was pinned to its clothing. The note read:

"I am sorry. I am a 16-year old white girl. I am not able to care for her."

Ptl. A. L. Mitchell and E. P. Newton carried the baby, approximately five months old, to the hospital.

A short time later, McCallister and E. F. McKillop said they answered a call to Grady and talked with a 35-year-old woman, a Negro.

KNIFE THREAT

She said she had carried two small children to the hospital and when she was leaving a Negro man and woman approached her. She said the man held a knife to her throat and the woman took the baby from her arms and vanished.

Police did not connect the two incidents immediately because the baby was believed to be white and the mother who had reported the kidnapping was Negro.

Under questioning, detectives said, the woman admitted leaving the baby at the department store. They added she and her husband accompanied them to Grady and identified the baby. "I don't know why I done it," she sobbed. "It just got on my nerves, I guess."

Detectives said the mother formerly was employed as a masseuse in a massage parlor operated for whites.

No charge was placed against the mother, officers said.

A Lovely Vacation

Well, it serves me right. I shouldn't have embarked on that week's vacation with such publicly pious airs about all the work I was going to do. Because now that I'm back friends keep asking embarrassing questions. For instance, "How much work did you get done?"

My native impulse is, of course, to lie. "Loads!" I want to say sturdily. But then there's that old superstitious fear that I have of weaving myself a tangled web and getting trapped in it. Sooner or later somebody is going to want to see the fruits of my labor and... well, what kind of showing do you think a nice pile of hickory ashes would make? Or a puddle of congealed candle wax? Or some tracks up a mountain trail?

You see we went to Holly Creek for most of the week and that involved considerable sitting by the fire—not just at night, which is all right because you aren't expected to work at night in the mountains, but in the daytime, too. Now I had my typewriter along and a ream of nice clean paper and a box load of reference books and practically the first thing I did was to set up shop under a window by the fireplace.

But when you have a fire going you have to keep the wood basket filled and that involved going outside, while you're outside the air feels fresh and sweet and you get to wondering if the wild strawberries are blooming down in that little meadow where the beekeeper sets out his beegums in the sourwood season. And since it's your vacation anyhow you feel it wouldn't hurt a bit to just take a little stroll up there and see.

(For the record, the wild strawberries are blooming like crazy! I wonder if I could get some more of my vacation in two or three weeks?)

Then, of course, it rained a couple of days, such roof-pounding, creek-swelling torrential rains that I had to spend some time standing at the window watching. If I were the kind of person who could go my way and let the weather go its, I'd be better off. But it seems to me that when nature takes pains to put on a really showy rain, accompanied by winds and hail, it would be ungracious not to watch. And, of course, the same thing is true of a golden morning following the rain when everything shines and glistens like ladies going to opera. Such weather takes appreciating and just to make my walk practical I took the water bucket along and went to the spring.

The trouble at the spring is that I got to noticing the different kinds of ferns that are unfolding their sticky pale green lace fronds and I had to set down the bucket the better to see. And one fern led to another and pretty soon I was a mile away from the cabin and the spring and was trying to tabulate, by this time, the different kinds of violets and all the shades of pink the trilliums are showing this year.

And if you can tear yourself away from trilliums and violets the blue flags and the sweet shrubs will entice you up a different slope.

By the time you get back to the cabin the fire has burned down and you have to bring in more wood and the kettle has boiled dry and you have to make another trip to the spring. And what with one thing and another your typewriter gathers dust and by dark your conscience is killing you so you light the candles and attempt to work by candlelight.

Of course I know all the respected scholars of the past are depicted as candlelight writers but I don't believe for a minute they ever did a lick of work by those flickering tapers. It's not so much that they couldn't see—candles really give a surprising amount of light. But I find my mind wanders from workaday tasks when the candles are lit and the hearth fire burns low and the creek stops chattering, day-time fashion, and starts murmuring.

Oh, it's my own fault. I shouldn't have said I was going to work. And then I would have had to make no apologies for having such a lovely vacation.

Piedmont Auxiliary Anniversary Lunch Set

The Piedmont Hospital Auxiliary will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday, the occasion to take the form of a birthday luncheon to be held at the Standard Town and Country Club. The auxiliary is one year old.

Mrs. Strother Fleming Jr., the president, will be the official hostess and will announce some very gratifying accomplishments the auxiliary has experienced during its brief existence. Such accomplishments as $20,000 accruing from the Piedmont Ball held early in the year; $2,884 made by the gift shop and the cheer cart at the hospital; and $3,387 collected in dues during the year. The members of the group have also increased the medical library at the hospital. A feature of the luncheon will be the fashion show. A slate of officers for next year will be announced by Mrs. John Ridley, chairman of the nominating committee.

A birthday cake bearing one candle will adorn the center of each table. The presidents of all other hospital auxiliaries in the city have been invited to the event.

Teen-Age Mail

She's Going Steady But He Isn't

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:
I am 15 years old and I've been going steady with a 16-year-old boy for three months. I like him very much and I think he is nice. My problem is that I never know how he feels about me; he has never told me whether he likes me or not. One time I think he likes me as much as I like him.

The next time I see him he acts as though I mean nothing at all to him. If we go dancing, he never stays with me at the dance. He does dance with me sometimes but that's all. He never walks me home from the dances. Don't you think he should do that and, at least, call me up sometimes?

It appears to me that you would be just as well off if you went to the school dances with a group of girls since you probably would get to dance "sometimes" with other boys.

My advice is first to try to realize you are too young to go steady. You see, you have proven this yourself by putting up with the boy's treatment—and showing you do not know how to handle this situation wisely. In my opinion, you need dating experience and should go out with a variety of nice boys and it seems your so-called steady needs to learn a great deal about dating, too.

Dear Mrs. Ricker:
I am a 16-year-old girl. I like a certain boy very much and would like to know him better. He asked me for a date once but he didn't show up—maybe it was because he lives in another town. Another boy has been asking me to go out with him for months but I've kept refusing because of the first boy. What should I do? My friends say I should keep on waiting for him while my parents say the opposite so I am confused.

The truth may hurt but it is better to face the facts. What possible reason could you have for thinking the first boy might ask you for another date? He stood you up on the only date he has asked for and has shown no interest in you since. You certainly reached "way out" to find an excuse for his behavior but I doubt that distance was a factor. You see, if it were, he should not have asked you for the date in the first place. Whatever his reason for not keeping the date he, at least, could have called you. So, you see, I agree with your parents.

Made-Up Lines Bring Sparkle To Cinderella

By HARRIETTE SCHREIBER

A fairy godmother with a broken arm and the second grade students transformed their scriptless play into a lavish and detailed five-act production of Cinderella.

Pupils of Mrs. Frances Elyea at the Spring Street School produced the lavish sets and the smooth-running play in two weeks' time.

By using creative dramatics with no set lines to memorize, the children were able to make up their parts as they went along, such as the line the page, Steve McClain, thought of when he tried the glass slipper on Cinderella's stepmother.

"FEET LIKE A HOBOT"

"You have feet like a, like a hobot," Steve muttered.

And the fairy godmother, Ruth Bailey, who fell while skating and broke her arm the week before the play, sailed smoothly through her lines.

"We will change a cat into a coachman who will drive the coach. We'll change the dog into a footman who will, who will," and she paused, puzzled over the job of the footman. Then she said, resolutely, "Well, into footman."

The two stepsisters, played by Candy Childers and Lora Glover, threw themselves into their parts.

Candy flounced about the stage, vying for the attention of the prince at the ball and adding bits of humor as she struggled to try on the glass slipper.

"I've always wanted a prince for a son-in-law," commented the stepmother, Kay Dorman.

An orchestra with cardboard string instruments accompanied the dancing 7-year-olds, who did a minuet. Members of the orchestra were Cole Harrison, Steve McMahan, Harry Respass and Clay Scofield.

SOLOS

And Cinderella, Donna French, and her Prince Charming, Evans Scarborough, went smoothly through their song and dance solos in their story-book costumes against an elaborate throne and settings the children had made in their classroom.

Each program was an "original" with covers drawn by the children. And even the costumes for the "horses" were made by the children with the help of the art teacher.

The four "horses" who pulled the pumpkin coach were David Kirkpatrick, Billy Respass, Richard Downing and Sam Glazer.

Bobby Gibeling was the messenger who broadcast the invitation to the prince's ball. And Jamie Miller and Jimmy Black took charge of the coach.

MADE OWN BACKDROP

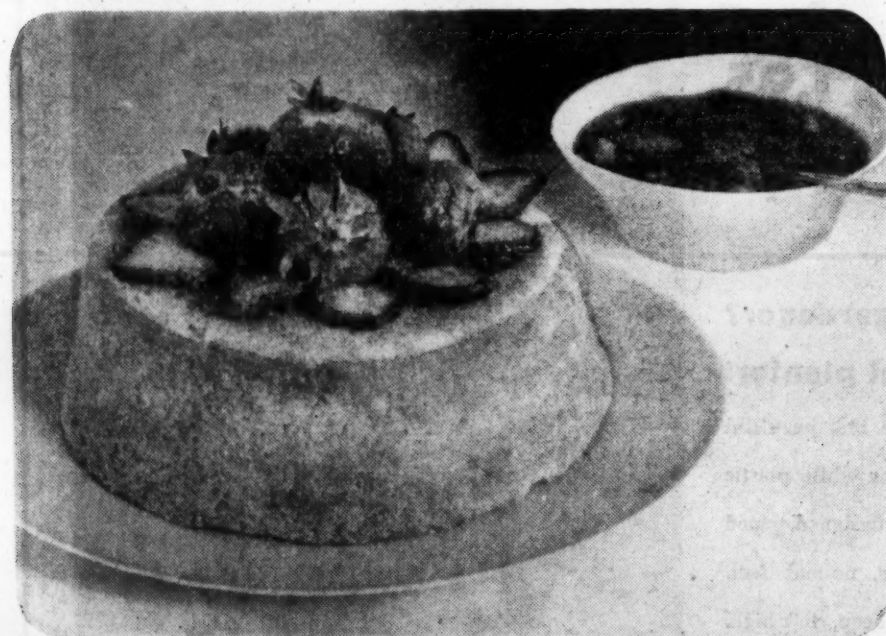

John Anderson, who played the cobbler, made his own backdrop for his scene.

Despite the disappearance of a sheet of music and a frantic last-minute hunt for a broom, the show sailed on stage before the jammed auditorium with parents, brothers and sisters and schoolmates watching the fairy tale come to life.

LEMON CAKE GARNISHED WITH FRESH STRAWBERRIES
Light Dessert Keeps Family in Shape for Outdoor Activities

Cake, Strawberries For a Spring Treat

By VIRGINIA DYSARD

Constitution Food Editor

To help fill those hollow legs that husbands and offspring seem to have developed overnight, a light but flavorful cake may be just the answer.

By the time May rolls around outdoor sports have really taken the lead in the field of entertainment, and this means only one thing to the family cook—lots of food.

The meat and potatoes are the real heart of the meal, but for the "extra" that is needed now here's a springtime dessert, festive and fresh as the season itself. Deliciously delicate and light as can be, a golden lemon cake topped with strawberries is the perfect finish for any springtime lunch or dinner. And there will surely be enough left over for a TV snack or a coffee break.

For full approval from all the family and guests there is a suggestion for mixing fruit flavors with cake and berries.

LEMON CAKE

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/2 tps. double-acting baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. lemon extract
Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy and beat in the eggs and lemon rind. Combine the dry ingredients and stir them into the sugar mixture alternately with the milk and lemon extract. Pour batter into a greased and floured 6-cup ring mold or small tube pan and bake in a 350-degree oven for 40 to

Summer Brown Makes Smart Reappearance on Fashion Scene

Newly returned to the fashion scene after an absence of several summers are the browns. I find them reappearing in all sorts of fabrics—in cottons, in prints, in linens, in silk crepes, even in silk chiffon.

The prettiest of the summer browns have a slightly grayed cast which makes them look both softer and somehow cooler. It's a welcome change from black and seems to fit in with the predilection for color that is a definite characteristic of American women.

Improve Your Posture Through Exercise

By IDA JEAN KAIN

When you're caught off guard by a glimpse of your silhouette reflected in a shop window, chances are your immediate reaction is to pull in sharply to look more shapely. But alas, the slimming effect is fleeting.

Normal weights as well as overweights find themselves in this dilemma. As one reader expressed it: "When I think about it I straighten up . . . but then I forget and slump again and find I'm not holding in. Is there some exercise that can help me?"

IMPROVE POSTURE

Desire is prerequisite to improving posture. Also it is important to sense the "feel" of good posture. That phrase PULL UP causes trouble, for it's impossible to hold the in-pull. Phrase it this way: PULL UP-AND-IN. It takes the coordinated action of all the abdominal muscles to maintain the lift.

Inability to hold the stomach flat is a common problem, for flabby muscles are simply not up to holding the pull. There must be sufficient tone in the brace of abdominal muscles to counteract gravity. Fortunately, the exercises which help to restore tone to important girdle muscles need not be strenuous.

Contraction exercises to strengthen a weak back and tone muscles of the abdomen fill the bill. The safety position prevents strain.

The correction is positively streamlining, so all those interested in shaping up, come along.

Position: Lying on back on floor with knees flexed, soles of feet flat on floor, arms down at sides.

UP AND IN

Movement: Pull firmly up-and-in, pressing small of back flat against the floor. Hold this movement for a measured count of 10. Holding this contraction tones the muscles. Release, pull up-and-in again and h-o-l-d. Repeat this routine 10 times. This seemingly effortless exercise is amazingly effective.

Position: Lying on back on floor, feet resting on low bench or stool, arms down at sides, BACKS of wrists on floor.

Movement: Flex right knee to chest as both arms are circled around on floor back of head. KEEP ARMS ON FLOOR AS YOU CIRCLE, and pull strongly up-and-in with girdle muscles. Return foot to bench and swing arms back to sides. Flexing alternate knees toward chest and maintaining the up-pull, continue 10 counts.

Practice this daily and you'll be pleased with your silhouette.

Cosmetics Give Teens Identity, Expert Says

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (AP)—Teen-aged girls need to wear make-up. It helps them find their personalities. So says Dr. Tibor Koeves, vice president of the Institute for Motivational Research, a market research organization.

"Cosmetics are tools of emotion. They help teen-agers decide what they want to become and serve as an outlet for this quest for identity. Attitudes toward cosmetics are an expression of a person's entire attitude toward life," Dr. Koeves said at a forum on teens' use of cosmetics, sponsored by the Fashion Group.

The group, which includes 3,000 women executives in the fashion industry, held the forum to emphasize the enormous potential of the teen-age market. In 1956, the teens had an estimated income of nine billion dollars. By 1965, persons under 20 years will form about 40 per cent of our total population or roughly 77 million persons. This youth population will be larger than the total population of the United States in 1900, the forum pointed out.

"Let girls spend hours in front of a mirror trying out cosmetics," Dr. Koeves said. "On these occasions, a teen-ager makes her own acquaintance. Cosmetics are an extension of her own personality or part of the girl she hopes to become."

"Cosmetics also are a teen-ager's tool for discovering where she belongs. Adolescents rebel against adult standards, but never against their own. They think that if other girls in their crowd do something or wear something, it must be right," he said.

"But this need to belong is not enough. A teen-ager must be somebody in the group, must have distinction and superiority. A girl with inside information on new make-up gains this needed respect," said Dr. Koeves.

But youngsters use make-up more sparingly than adults think, he added.

"Girls are conservative because boys want them to be. Mothers tell their sons, 'Don't go out with girls who wear too much make-up.' And the boys don't."

An institute survey showed that in the eighth grade, about half the girls wear lipstick. In the ninth grade, most girls paint. By the next grade, the youngsters start using eyebrow pencil. Nearly every girl goes in for pencil, and half use mascara in the 11th grade. When they're high school seniors, they get the works, Dr. Koeves said.

Today's teen-agers (boys and girls) prefer the wholesome type of girl to sirens, he added. "We showed them pictures of the 1920s beauties, and they rejected them. They want a girl to look like a captain of a swimming team. They think she need not be beautiful, but she should be cute," he added.

Clubwomen Focus on Reports, Recommendations at Convention

By BETTY CARROLLTON
Chemises, calorie-counting and casual chit-chat take a back seat in the interests of Georgia women this week as they turn their attention to clubs and club projects.

Hundreds of delegates, representing some 12,000 members of the state's nearly 300 federated women's organizations, will begin gathering in Columbus Tuesday for the annual convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Among those attending will be delegates of the following 14 new federation members: Savannah Woman's Club, Amoryville Club, Capitol Homes Club, Georgia Power Club of Augusta, Fleming Junior Woman's Club, Marietta Town and Country Junior Woman's Club, Dalton Green Acres Woman's Club, Carrollton Junior Woman's Club, Perkerson Woods Club, Avondale Woman's Club, Kirkwood Junior Woman's Club, Zebulon Woman's Club, Clarkston Community Woman's Club, Elberton Civic League, and the LaVista Junior Woman's Club.

SET A GOAL

In announcing the new organizations, Mrs. E. L. Barnes, Statesboro, first vice president and extension chairman, pointed out there are more than 50 counties in Georgia that do not have a woman's club in the federation. Mrs. Barnes will recommend to the convention that extension committees be set up in each district as soon as possible to work with a state chairman toward a goal of at least one federated organization in each county.

Departments of work in the federation — communications, community affairs, conservation, education, fine arts, home, international affairs, public affairs, legislation, mental health, news service, youth service — will be in the convention spotlight as state chairmen disclose their progress reports.

One of the most impressive reports is that of the legislative committee, headed by Mrs. Charles N. Inman of Marietta. The federation has indeed had a successful year in its legislative program, a program that has brought letters of commendation from the General Federation.

"Bills sponsored by our organization pertaining to juvenile protection passed with little opposition," Mrs. Inman recalled.

RECOMMENDATIONS
Mrs. Inman will recommend that the federation continue to have the fall district meetings include a legislative program, and continue to be active in the interorganization Governor's Legislative Forum for Women.

Reporting on work of the mental health committee, Mrs. R. C. Melton, Atlanta, chairman, pointed out that interest in this phase of federation activities has been at the highest.

"Mere suggestion has brought forth overwhelming cooperation in gifts to patients at our state hospitals," she said. "These gifts have varied from a pair of socks for a forgotten man to at least 10 TV sets for use in family rooms at the institutions."

SCHOLARSHIP

She added that cooperation with the Atlanta and Georgia Associations of Mental Health has resulted in the provision of a year's scholarship in psychiatric nursing for Miss Elsa Seigart at the University of Maryland.

Miss Seigart, a graduate nurse formerly associated with the Georgia Baptist Hospital, will return to Georgia for at least two years of practice in the care of mentally ill persons following her training at the Maryland college.

Recommendations to come before the convention from the youth service committee, headed by Mrs. Henry J. Toombs, Atlanta, include organizing a "Citizens Action Conference" to be held at the center for Continuing Education in Athens to "take a good hard look at our problems and find some solutions."

She suggests that a steering committee be created to organize the conference, composed of federation members and three or four outstanding men, and that a technical advisory committee be set up, composed of judges, legislators, probation and parole people, and other specialists in the field.

May 20 Set For Griffin, Dunn Trials

Trial of R. A. (Cheney) Griffin, Gov. Marvin Griffin's brother, and Baxley Mayor J. M. (Buck) Dunn on charges in connection with a 1957 legislative land transfer resolution, has been tentatively set for May 20, a court official said Monday.

Carlos Hopkins, deputy clerk of the criminal division of Fulton Superior Court, said indictments against Griffin and Dunn have been set down for trial before Judge E. E. Andrews after Fulton Sol. Gen. Paul Webb asked for the May 20 date.

Date of the trial will be officially set Thursday when Judge Jesse M. Wood, presiding judge of the court for this term, sets the court calendar, Hopkins explained. The clerk sets up the calendar by direction of the presiding judge.

Griffin, who is mayor of Bainbridge and is executive aide to the governor, and Dunn are jointly charged in two indictments with receiving $1,500 to influence the governor to sign a legislative resolution to transfer 124 acres of land in Appling County to a Baxley group, and with cheating and swindling.

Griffin, who was originally indicted separately on the influencing count, has filed a demand for a trial during the May-June term. Either defendant may ask for a severance.

Billy Graham Forgiveness For Any Sin Is Possible

QUESTION: A relative of mine, in a moment of despair took the life of his son and then shot himself. He lived two weeks and during that time repented of his sin and asked forgiveness. If he was sincere, did God forgive him and will he receive eternal life?—J. D.

ANSWER: It was indeed a grave and terrible sin your relative committed. But in these days, compound homicide is not an unusual thing.

It is possible this person was mentally incapacitated at the time. If so, even a court would make allowances for that. Let us assume, however, he was in possession of his faculties. The Bible tells us the sin of murder can be forgiven. Moses was a murderer, and his sin was forgiven. Paul consented to the execution of Stephen, the first martyr, and Paul was forgiven. Jesus prayed for his murderers and said, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do."

You say this man repented of his sin and asked forgiveness. Great as his sin was, I see no reason why God would not forgive him. God's love so far exceeds ours it is hard for us to grasp such mercy and grace. But if the dying criminal on the cross found mercy from the Savior, I can believe His forgiving power is no less today than it was then.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint, dark spots, characteristic of old paper. The page is framed by dark borders on the top and bottom, which appear to be the edges of the book's binding or the scanner's frame. There is no text or other markings on the page.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Neither vulnerable. North deals.

NORTH		EAST
♠ A 5 4 3	♠ 7	♠ 10 9 8	♠ 6 5 4 3 2
♥ K J	♥ 9 4 2	♥ A 10 8 7 6 5	♥ 3
♦ K 10 9 3	♦ Q 6 5	♦ A 10 8 7 6 5	♦ J 7
♣ A Q 6	♣ 5 4 3 2	♣ 10 9 8 7 6 5	♣ 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trp. Pass	3 hearts Pass	1 no trp. Pass	3 hearts Pass
5 spades Pass	5 spades Pass	5 spades Pass	5 spades Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of clubs. Declarer rejected an obvious finesse in today's slam contract in favor of one that went slightly against percentage. There was a human factor involved, however, that swung the balance in his favor.

The bidding was aggressive but the final auction was reasonable. South decided to show his suits normally by naming his six-carder first. North might well have bid spades himself, but he elected to return to three no trump.

However, when his partner bid the higher ranking major at the four level, North sensed a possible plan and raised to five. South by now was caught in the bidding tempo he had created and, hoping his partner had the right cards, he proceeded to six.

An opening lead of the ace of diamonds would have simplified declarer's problem, because a parking place would now be provided for the possible loser in clubs. West, however, chose to lead the 10 of clubs.

Declarer rose with the ace and dropped his jack on the trick as East signaled with the 8. A low trump was then led to the king and the jack put through, which of course West refused to cover.

Nevertheless, declarer permitted it to ride.

When it held, the last trump was drawn, and when the queen of hearts dropped, declarer was able to discard dummy's clubs on the heart suit and win 13 tricks.

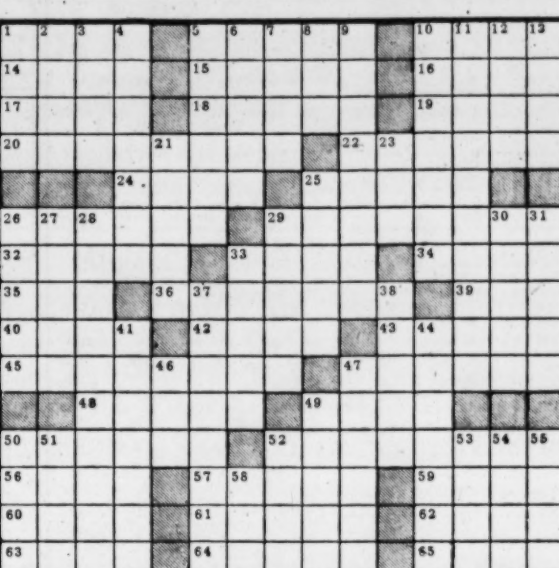

There was more than mere luck in the finesse of the spade. True, the play for the drop is superior with nine trumps, but there was a psychological factor to be taken into account. If the spade finesse lost to East, there was the chance he might make the mistake of not cashing the king of clubs, in which case declarer would surely be able to set up the heart suit for club discards out of dummy.

In any case, as North said at the time, "Nice shot, partner."

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE
REEVES

"The prosperous postwar years have accustomed people to a higher living standard and the present slight decline in our economy is more keenly felt for that reason."

—Financial column quote.

The years must pass before one learns . . . the gobs of money that he burns . . . give little heat, and when he's old . . . will not protect him from the cold . . . but one can't be convinced of that . . . until his pocketbook is flat . . . the flocks of bills accumulate . . . and creditors refuse to wait.

How often you have heard it said . . . "I just can't seem to get ahead . . . I try to save, but heaven knows . . . I haven't had a suit of clothes . . . in seven years, or maybe more . . . about the only thing in store . . . for me, the way I see it now . . . is borrowing, somewhere, somehow."

But borrowing is a disease . . . that keeps the poor man on his knees . . . while Loan-Associations stand . . . to offer him a helping hand . . . He "robs from Peter to pay Paul" . . . but not enough to pay them all . . . It is a wheel within a wheel . . . and somehow one can't help but feel . . . most people do not have the gift . . . of practicing a little thrift.
